Regional Environmental Governance and Avenues for the Ecosystem Approach to management in the Baltic Sea Area Sara Söderström, 2017-01-17 This thesis explores the avenues for the ecosystem approach to management in the Baltic Sea Region This region is one of the most contaminated water bodies in the world although the first Regional Seas Convention was created here and there region has a long history of cooperation and environmental protection. The current environmental governance arrangements are examined with specific focus on governance structures, cross sectoral integration and ecological boundaries. The ecosystem approach to management as both a tool and vision of holistic management of natural resources is traced through the evolution of environmental governance as well as its manifestation in contemporary environmental policies in the region. It is found that the major EU directives as well as HELCOM policies promote the ecosystem approach and that its presence has increased in recent years; it is now the major guiding principle in European marine governance. However, the governance structures impede implementation in different ways. The environmental problem areas in the region all require different governance arrangements, thus obstructing a holistic approach. The environmental problems per se also affect each other, necessitating far reaching sectoral integration and cross border cooperation, which at present is the major obstacle regarding implementation. The contemporary trends combining solid regionalisation through HELCOM with increased Europeanisation and macro regionalisation by different EU initiatives offer some promise, but the cross sectoral impediments must be resolved if the ecosystem approach is to become a practical approach and not just a policy principle. Routledge Handbook of Contemporary Bangladesh Ali Riaz, Mohammad Sajjadur Rahman, 2016-01-29

Handbook of National and Regional Ocean Policies Biliiana Cicin-Sain, David Vanderzwaag, Miriam C. Balgos, 2015-05-15
This comprehensive handbook prepared by leading ocean policy academics and practitioners from around the world presents in depth analyses of the experiences of fifteen developed and developing nations and four key regions of the world that have taken concrete steps toward cross cutting and integrated national and regional ocean policy. All chapters follow a common framework for policy analysis. While most coastal nations of the world already have a variety of sectoral policies in place to manage different uses of the ocean such as shipping, fishing, oil and gas development, in the last two decades the coastal nations covered in the book have undertaken concerted efforts to articulate and implement an integrated ecosystem based vision for the governance of ocean areas under their jurisdiction. This includes goals and procedures to harmonize existing uses and laws to foster sustainable development of ocean areas to protect biodiversity and vulnerable resources and ecosystems and to coordinate the actions of the many government agencies that are typically involved in oceans affairs The book highlights the serious conflicts of use in most national ocean zones and the varying attempts by nations to follow the prescriptions emanating from the 1982 UN Law of the Sea Convention and the outcomes of the 1992 2002 and 2012 sustainable development summits The interrelationship among uses and processes in the coast and ocean requires that ocean governance be integrated precautionary and anticipatory Overall the book provides a definitive state of the art review and analysis of national and regional ocean policies around the world
