

Did You Hear That?

There are many ways to measure sound. You are probably familiar with the musical scale—do, re, mi, fa, sol, la, ti, do. Each note is higher than the one before it. The musical scale is made up of sounds with a different pitch. Pitch is the highness or lowness of a sound. Pitch depends on how many times the air vibrates in a second. The number of vibrations, or back-and-forth motions, per second is called the frequency. Frequency is measured in hertz. A hertz is one vibration per second.

The faster an object vibrates, the higher the pitch. The slower an object vibrates, the lower the pitch. The human voice can make sounds that range in frequency from around 85 to 1,100 hertz. The range of frequencies a human ear can hear is around 20 to 20,000 hertz. Some animals can hear sounds that humans cannot hear. That is why, for example, there are special whistles used to call dogs. These whistles make sounds at frequencies well above the range of human hearing. Some animals also make sounds that humans cannot hear.

Sound waves move away from their source and travel in many different directions. The loudness, or volume, of sound decreases the farther you move away from the source. We can measure volume in units called decibels. Volume is determined by amplitude, or the height of the sound waves. As amplitude increases, loudness increases. A sound of zero decibels is the starting point of human hearing. A sound of over 140 decibels may damage human ears. Listening to very loud music for long periods of time can permanently reduce a person's ability to hear.

Write letters in the blanks below to match each sound word with its definition.

- | | |
|---|--------------|
| 1. _____ the number of vibrations per second | A. volume |
| 2. _____ determined by amplitude of sound waves | B. pitch |
| 3. _____ measurement of the loudness of sound | C. hertz |
| 4. _____ highness or lowness of a sound | D. decibels |
| 5. _____ frequency is measured by this | E. frequency |

Draw lines to match each sound with its average number of decibels. Remember that the louder a sound is, the greater its number of decibels.

- | | |
|-------------------------|--------------|
| 6. a vacuum cleaner | 60 decibels |
| 7. a jet | 15 decibels |
| 8. the rustle of leaves | 120 decibels |
| 9. normal conversation | 85 decibels |

10. Describe the difference between pitch and volume.
