South Africa To Stay Course Of Sound Fiscal Management

South Africa will stay the course of sound fiscal management and will not cut pro-poor programmes over the coming months, newly appointed Finance Minister Pravin Gordhan said on Monday.

"We will stay the course of sound fiscal management. Our expenditure cutting is inconsistent. We can have extra revenue, only if we raise extra revenue," Minister Gordhan told a packed, special media briefing held after his appointment.

Late on Sunday, President Jacob Zuma announced that he had appointed Minister Gordhan - who had previously served as Minister of Finance between 2009 and 2014 - to the portfolio of National Treasury, replacing Minister David van Rooyen who was appointed to the post last week.

Minister van Rooyen has been deployed to the portfolio of Cooperative Governance and Traditional Affairs.

At the briefing in Pretoria, on Monday, Minister Gordhan assured the nation that pro-poor programmes as well as growth inducing programmes and investment will not be cut.

Instead, he said, government will work to increase expenditure in the 2017 budget.

National Treasury will redouble efforts to ensure efficiency of expenditure across the public service.

"We have been clear that one of the risks to our fiscal framework is the financial state of state-owned companies (SOCs). Let me emphasize that any support to these companies will be done in a fiscally sustainable manner. As President Zuma said 'no state-owned entity will dictate to government how it should be assisted'," explained Minister Gordhan.

He said that while many SOCs are in a strong financial position, the performance of others has weakened and work has begun to develop a uniform legislative framework to regulate them.

Answering a question on the national career, South African Airways (SAA) Minister Gordhan said he was not aware of any decisions taken by former Minister van Rooyen.

"We will start dealing with the board of SAA. Obviously there will be a Christmas, New Year break and then pick up our discussions in the New Year," Minister Gordhan said, adding that he hopes that he will talk to board chairperson Dande Moyo.

Excitement As Minister Opens New Labour Centre In Carolina

Scores of people greeted the opening of new Labour Centre by Labour Minister Mthembu Othman in Carolina, Mpumalanga on Thursday.

The office, was formally opened after years of difficult conditions in a very limited space that saw officials operating from a single cramped office in the current situation to where they moved to a state-of-the-art building.

Also in attendance were the Deputy, Mthembu Othman and MEC Mthembu Othman and top management of the Department. Social partners present included COSATU and NACTU.

During the servicing of the plaque the Minister said "we are happy as the Department that we have finally managed to have decent conditions that will ensure that service delivery happens with dignity being afforded to our clients."

Thobela Lantini, Director General said "we are happy that this opening coincides with the international human rights day as decreed by the United Nations. The Department of Labour, as the custodian of Labour Law, has always said worker's rights are human rights."

Khehame said "through this office, the Department is responding to the call by the people of Mpumalanga for their lives to be improved in the Chief Albert Luthuli Municipality. Most vulnerable workers are in the formal retail industry as well as domestic worker field."

In his key-note address, the Deputy Minister Mthembu said community development and service delivery are close to heart.

"Our service delivery and operational tools are sharpened through the way we treat our clients in the 125 Labour Centres that are located across the province. The purpose of these centres is to ensure service to our clients is rendered in the best level possible. This is why these Labour centres should become centres of excellence."

"The minister and I would like this Labour centre to become a model and a centre where domestic workers, farm workers and all vulnerable workers will find refuge; we will also provide advice to employers on how to treat their employees."

FACT A WEEK

Local in labour... In the past 12 months, the number of people who have been employed in the formal sector has increased by 1.5 million. This is a significant increase in the number of people who have found work in the formal sector.
