Adoption Social Work And Social Theory Making The Connections:

Adoption, Social Work and Social Theory Tim O'Shaughnessy, 1994 This book is an attempt at understanding the foundations upon which the practice and theory of adoption and substitute care are based It shows that mainstream thinking about adoption is flawed in a number of ways and uses historical and cross cultural material to develop an alternative framework for understanding and practice Much of the material which directly and indirectly relates to and informs the practice and theory of adoption and substitute care is dispersed across a variety of disciplines including history anthropology ethnography sociology law social work and social administration This work attempts to integrate much of that material in a consistent historical and social theoretical framework The implications of this study for social and welfare work and policy in the field of adoption and substitute care are profound The book concludes with a set of recommendations for altering both the substance and form of our practices in the field of substitute care and indeed of professional education leading to employment in that area

Adoption, Social Work and Social Theory Tim O'Shaughnessy, 1992 Adoption Detective Judith Land, Martin Land, 2011 A passionate love affair between high school sweethearts creates an accidental pregnancy during a sultry night on the shore of Lake Michigan Rebecca's unforgiving parents banish her to an unwed mother's home where she secretly gives birth to a baby girl Her daughter Judy is placed in the loving care of foster parents before being callously given to Mario and Rosella Romano for adoption on her first birthday Reoccurring visions and fantasies of her birthmother plague Judy's consciousness for three decades until a life changing passage into adulthood causes her to question why she was abandoned What begins as a simple investigation into her medical and ancestral history slowly evolves into a passionate quest to discover her roots Through good timing perseverance and a few small miracles Judy eventually solves the mystery of her origins But will the woman she has been seeking welcome Judy back into her life About the Authors Judith and Martin Land live in Colorado and Arizona They told the entire story of Judith Land's adoption from her birth through adulthood to provide the reader with unique insights into the mind of an adoptee at various stages of her life

Beyond the Fragments Tim O'Shaughnessy, 1994

The Impact of Adoption on Members of the Triad Madelyn Freundlich, Joy Kim Lieberthal, 2001 The controversies in adoption have extended across a spectrum of policy and practice issues and although the issues have become clear resolution has not been achieved nor has consensus developed regarding a framework on which to improve the quality of adoption policy and practice This book is the third in a series to use an ethics based framework for analyzing and resolving these complex challenges in adoption while avoiding the divisiveness that has heretofore impeded their resolution This book presented in four parts focuses on the many ways that adoption may affect each member of the adoption triad Part 1 presents information on the historical context of adoption in the United States from colonial times through the current day Part 2 examines the impact of adoption on the adopted person and considers children s and adolescents adjustment and well being adolescents identity formation adult adoptees access to information and adoptees searches and reunions with biological parents Part 3 considers the impact of adoption on birth parents including the individual s sense of personal integrity and well being related to open adoption practices and involuntary termination of parental rights Part 4 examines the impact of adoption on prospective adoptive parents adoptive parents and adoptive families focusing on the psychological and social processes involved in becoming adoptive parents the processes involved in being approved to parent and issues related to adoptive parents right to adopt and decisions to adopt particular children Contains 394 references KB

Telling the Truth to Your Adopted or Foster Child Betsy Keefer Smalley, Jayne E.

Schooler,2015-09-15 Many adopted or foster children have complex troubling often painful pasts This book provides parents and professionals with sound advice on how to communicate effectively about difficult and sensitive topics providing concrete strategies for helping adopted and foster children make sense of the past so they can enjoy a healthy well adjusted future Approximately one of every four adopted children will have adjustment challenges related to their separation from the birth family earlier trauma attachment difficulties and or issues stemming from the adoption process Common complicating issues of adopted children are feelings of rejection abandonment or confusion about their origins While many foster and adoptive parents and even many professionals are reluctant to communicate openly about birth histories silence only adds to the child s confusion and pain This revised and significantly expanded edition of the award winning Telling the Truth to Your Adopted or Foster Child equips parents with the knowledge and tools they need to communicate with their adopted or foster child about their past Revisions include coverage of significant new research and information regarding the importance of understanding the child s trauma history to his or her well being and successful adjustment in his foster or adoptive family The authors answer such questions as How do I share difficult information about my child s adoption in a sensitive manner When is the right time to tell my child the whole truth How do I obtain more information on my child s history Detailed descriptions of actual cases help the parent or caregiver find ways to discover the truth particularly in closed and international adoption cases organize the information and explain the details of the past gently to a toddler child or young adult who may find it frightening or confusing

Orphans of Islam Jamila Bargach,2002-02-26 Orphans of Islam portrays the abject lives and excluded body of abandoned and bastard children in contemporary Morocco while critiquing the concept and practice of adoption which too often is considered a panacea Through a close and historically grounded reading of legal social and cultural mechanisms of one predominantly Islamic country Jamila Bargach shows how the surplus bastard body is created by mainstream society Written in part from the perspectives of the children and single mothers intermittently from the view of adopting families and employing bastardy as a haunting and empowering motif with a potentially subversive edge this ethnography is composed as an intricate open ended and arabesque like evocation of Moroccan society and its state institutions It equally challenges received sociological and anthropological tropes and understandings of the Arab world

In the Best Interests of the Child Mili Mass,2018-05-07 Marshalling her experience as an expert witness in court proceedings on non consensual confidential adoption in Israel Mass describes legal proceedings following the Israeli state petition that declares children eligible for adoption because of alleged parental incapability and explores the politics of state intervention in the parent child relationship The selected case studies present the testimonies of the children the parents the designated adoptive parents and the state s representatives as well as the author s own testimony

Bibliographic Index
,2001 Subject Guide to Books in Print ,1997 Australian National Bibliography ,1995 After Adoption Janette

Logan,Carole Smith,2013-01-11 Few children nowadays are placed for adoption with no form of contact planned with birth relatives and it has become common professional practice to advocate direct rather than indirect contact. Practice has outstripped evidence in this respect and not enough is known about how contact arrangements actually work out particularly for older children adopted from state care. Such children have often experienced neglect and sometimes abuse and have frequently been adopted without parental agreement. Based on research with a large number of adoptive parents, children and birth relatives, After Adoption considers the impact of direct post adoption contact on all concerned in such cases. It also discusses the development of adoption policy and law particularly with regard to the legal and social consequences, reviews the research evidence on adopted children's contact with their birth families, explores through interviews participants' feelings about adoption and direct contact, their relationships with each other, what hinders and what helps. After Adoption challenges readers to re-think the relationship between adoption and the possibility of direct post adoption contact and at the same time provides a comprehensive understanding of adoption issues. It is a timely and valuable addition to the literature on adoption, making a substantial contribution to policy and practice.

Relationships, Community, and the Restorative School
 Seow-Ling Kek, James Lim, Tyler Sim, Enci Li, Justin Mui, 2025-04-29
 This book shares our journey with restorative practice and provides insight into how we developed a programme that impacts school culture: the Builders Project. It is a documentation of our experience of bringing restorative practice to primary school settings in Singapore through a whole school community building approach to enable students to have a positive learning experience and to thrive. This contrasts with implementing restorative practice focusing on behavioural management. It is the first non-Western contribution to the field of restorative practices as a whole school approach. This book shares Lutheran Community Care Services (LCCS) practice assumptions that underpin the need to build, strengthen and restore relationships. It also illustrates the application of our restorative practice principles which are drawn from our experience, values and research towards building effective relationships among the individuals in the school community. Stories and perspectives of practitioners, students, parents, teachers and school leaders are shared to highlight how they experience voice, agency and belonging through restorative processes. Most importantly, we hope that this book will inspire you to reflect on your journey with restorative practice in schools through the reflection questions posed in each of the substantive chapters. This book is for educators, school social work and mental health practitioners, educational policymakers, school administrators, principals, academics, researchers and restorative practice practitioners. This book is also suitable for undergraduates or postgraduate students who desire to understand practice beyond the theories that they have learnt and gain insights on what the journey of practicing and implementing restorative practice looks like.

Wayne Carp, 2014 Adoption activist Jean Paton 1908 2002 fought tirelessly to reform American adoption dedicating her life to overcoming American society s prejudices against adult adoptees and women who give birth out of wedlock From the 1950s until the time of her death Paton wrote widely and passionately about the adoption experience corresponded with policymakers as well as individual adoptees promoted the psychological well being of adoptees and facilitated reunions between adoptees and their birth parents She also led the struggle to re open adoption records creating a national movement that continues to this day While open adoption is often now the rule for adoptions within the United States for those in earlier eras adopted in secrecy the records remain sealed many adoptees live and die without vital information that should be a birthright and birth parents suffer a similar deprivation. At this writing only seven of fifty states have open records. Kansas and Alaska have never closed theirs. E. Wayne Carp's masterful biography of Jean Paton brings this neglected civil rights pioneer and her accomplishments into the light. Paton's ceaseless activity created the preconditions for the explosive emergence of the adoption reform movement in the 1970s. She founded the Life History Study Center and Orphan Voyage and was also instrumental in forming two of the movement's most vital organizations: Concerned United Birthparents and the American Adoption Congress. Her unflagging efforts over five decades helped reverse social workers' harmful policy and practice concerning adoption and sealed adoption records and change lawmakers' enactment of laws prejudicial to adult adoptees and birth mothers' struggles that continue to this day.
