

Microsoft PowerPoint Exercises 4

Special Effects

In these exercises, you will be working with your Music Presentation file used in part 1 and 2. Open that file if you haven't already done so.

Exercise 1. Slide Sorter View

When you are showing your presentation, you may want to spice things up a little by making the transition from one slide to the next a little more interesting. PowerPoint has several built-in transition effects. When you are setting up slide transitions, it is easiest to work in slide sorter view, so that you can see all of your slides at once. You can also use the sorter view to rearrange and delete slides.

- 1) Begin by switching to slide sorter view. You can do that by clicking the icon in the bottom right corner of the screen.

Once you're in slide sorter view, you should see small versions of each of your slides displayed. First of all, we'll try moving a slide.

- 2) Click on the third slide (popular artists). Drag it to the left of the second slide (Reasons for liking). Moving slides is as simple as that. If you hold down [Ctrl] as you drag, you'll be creating a copy of the slide.
- 3) Click the New Slide button at the top. The new slide will automatically take on the formatting of your currently selected theme.
- 4) Click the new slide and press [Delete].

Laboratory Exercises for Sensory Evaluation Harry T. Lawless, 2012-12-12 Laboratory exercises are a necessary part of science education. They enable students to better understand the principles discussed in lectures and provide them with hands on experience of the practical aspects of scientific research. The purpose of this book is to provide students and instructors with a time tested set of lab exercises that illustrate the common sensory tests and or sensory principles used in evaluation of foods beverages and consumer products. The appendices will also include a set of simple problem sets that can be used to teach and reinforce basic statistical tests. Approximately twenty years ago the Sensory Evaluation Division of the Institute of Food Technologists sponsored the preparation of a set of exercises titled Guidelines for Laboratory Exercises for a Course in Sensory Evaluation of Foods edited by one of the co authors Heymann. This book will provide additional materials from the second author Lawless as well as other instructors in a uniform format that can be easily adopted for course use. Most importantly the lab exercises will complement the flagship textbook in the field Sensory Evaluation of Foods Principles and Practices 2E also by Lawless and Heymann and published by Springer. Possible course adoption of the main text along with the lab manual should enhance the sales of these materials.

The Exercise Professional's Guide to Optimizing Health Jeffrey L. Roitman, Tom La Fontaine, 2011 Published in cooperation with the American College of Sports Medicine. The Exercise Professional's Guide to Optimizing Health enables you to design and implement exercise programs based on the latest research to help people avoid the onset of chronic disease. Moreover it shows you how to design exercise programs so that people with chronic disease can safely benefit from exercise. This text begins with an overview of the epidemiology of chronic disease and is then divided into three parts. Part One clearly explains pathophysiology concepts common to all chronic diseases as well as the healthful effects of exercise and nutrition. Part Two covers atherosclerosis obesity diabetes and metabolic syndrome hypertension and dyslipidemia with specific recommendations for effective exercise programs to manage each disease Finally Part Three discusses behavior change and then summarizes all the exercise prescription information for each chronic disease in a single chapter
