contemporary American and British military culture is formed focusing explicitly on the six major military institutions The author dedicates a chapter to each of these institutions with each one sharing a unifying analytical framework These chapters explore the formation and sustenance of US UK military culture under the rubric of common themes that include social origins transformative events leaders approaches to war technology and contemporary identity To conclude the book considers the impact of the War on Terror on the military cultures of the US and UK as well as likely directions for the future This book will be of much interest to students of military studies strategic studies security studies and comparative politics

At War with Women Jennifer Greenburg, 2023-02-15 At War with Women reveals how post 9 11 politics of gender and development have transformed US military power In the mid 2000s the US military used development as a weapon as it revived counterinsurgency in Iraq and Afghanistan The military assembled all female teams to reach households and wage war through development projects in the battle for hearts and minds Despite women technically being banned from ground combat units the all female teams were drawn into combat nonetheless Based on ethnographic fieldwork observing military trainings this book challenges liberal feminist narratives that justified the Afghanistan War in the name of women s rights and celebrated women s integration into combat as a victory for gender equality Jennifer Greenburg critically interrogates a new imperial feminism and its central role in securing US hegemony Women s incorporation into combat through emotional labor has reinforced gender stereotypes with counterinsurgency framing female soldiers as global ambassadors for women s rights This book provides an analysis of US imperialism that keeps the present in tension with the past clarifying where colonial ideologies of race gender and sexuality have resurfaced and how they are changing today Potential Health

Risks to DOD Firing-Range Personnel from Recurrent Lead Exposure National Research Council, Division on Earth and Life Studies, Board on Environmental Studies and Toxicology, Committee on Toxicology, Committee on Potential Health Risks from Recurrent Lead Exposure of DOD Firing Range Personnel, 2013-04-20 Lead is a ubiquitous metal in the environment and its adverse effects on human health are well documented Lead interacts at multiple cellular sites and can alter protein function in part through binding to amino acid sulfhydryl and carboxyl groups on a wide variety of structural and functional proteins In addition lead mimics calcium and other divalent cations and it induces the increased production of cytotoxic reactive oxygen species Adverse effects associated with lead exposure can be observed in multiple body systems including the nervous cardiovascular renal hematologic immunologic and reproductive systems Lead exposure is also known to induce adverse developmental effects in utero and in the developing neonate Lead poses an occupational health hazard and the Occupational Safety and Health Administration OSHA developed a lead standard for general industry that regulates many workplace exposures to this metal The standard was promulgated in 1978 and encompasses several approaches for reducing exposure to lead including the establishment of a permissible exposure limit PEL of 50 g m<sup>3</sup> in air an 8 hour time weighted average TWA exposure guidelines for instituting medical surveillance guidelines for removal from and return to work and other risk management strategies An action level of 30 g m3 an 8 hour TWA for lead was established to trigger medical surveillance in employees exposed above that level for more than 30 days per year Another provision is that any employee who has a blood lead level BLL of 60 g dL or higher or three consecutive BLLs averaging 50 g dL or higher must be removed from work involving lead exposure An employee may resume work associated with lead exposure only after two BLLs are lower than 40 g dL Thus maintaining BLLs lower than 40 g dL was judged by OSHA to protect workers from adverse health effects The OSHA standard also includes a recommendation that BLLs of workers who are planning a pregnancy be under 30 g dL In light of knowledge about the hazards posed by occupational lead exposure the Department of Defense DOD asked the National Research Council to evaluate potential health risks from recurrent lead exposure of firing range personnel Specifically DOD asked the National Research Council to determine whether current exposure standards for lead on DOD firing ranges protect its workers adequately The committee also considered measures of cumulative lead dose Potential Health Risks to DOD Firing Range Personnel from Recurrent Lead Exposure will help to inform decisions about setting new air exposure limits for lead on firing ranges about whether to implement limits for surface contamination and about how to design lead surveillance programs for range personnel appropriately
