Class Divide Howard Gillette, Jr., 2015-05-21 Members of the Yale College class of 1964 the first class to matriculate in the 1960s were poised to take up the positions of leadership that typically followed an Ivy League education Their mission gained special urgency from the inspiration of John F Kennedy's presidency and the civil rights movement as it moved north Ultimately these men proved successful in traditional terms in the professions in politics and in philanthropy and yet something was different Challenged by the issues that would define a new era their lives took a number of unexpected turns Instead of confirming the triumphal perspective they grew up with in the years after World War II they embraced new and often conflicting ideas In the process the group splintered In Class Divide Howard Gillette Jr draws particularly on more than one hundred interviews with representative members of the Yale class of 64 to examine how they were challenged by the issues that would define the 1960s civil rights the power of the state at home and abroad sexual mores and personal liberty religious faith and social responsibility Among those whose life courses Gillette follows from their formative years in college through the years after graduation are the politicians Joe Lieberman and John Ashcroft the Harvard humanities professor Stephen Greenblatt the environmental leader Gus Speth and the civil rights activist Stephen Bingham Although their Ivy League education gave them access to positions in the national elite the members of Yale 64 nonetheless were too divided to be part of a unified leadership class Try as they might they found it impossible to shape a new consensus to replace the one that was undone in their college years and early adulthood

Porfilio, 2016-03-01 This edited volume contributes to a burgeoning field of critical scholarship on the news media and education This scholarship is based on an understanding that the news media has increasingly applied a neoliberal template that mediates knowledge and action about education This book calls into question what the public knows about education how the public is informed and whose interests are represented and ultimately served through the production and distribution of information by the news media about education The chapters comprising this volume serve to enlighten and call to action parents students educators academics and scholars activists and policymakers for social political and economic transformation Moreover as the neoliberal agenda in North America intensifies the chapters in this book help to deepen our understanding of the logics and processes of the neoliberal privatization of education and the accompanying social discourses that facilitate the reduction of social relations to a transaction in the marketplace The chapters examine the news media and the reproduction of neoliberal educational reforms A Nation at Risk Teach For America charter schools think tanks and PISA and resistance to neoliberal educational reforms online activism and radical Black press while also broadening our conceptual understanding of the marketization and mediatization of educational discourses Overall the book provides an in depth understanding of the neoliberal privatization of education by extending critical examinations to this underrepresented field of cultural production the news media coverage of education The contribution of this edited volume therefore helps to build an understanding of the contemporary dynamics of capital accumulation to inform public resistance for social transformation Coffee Culture Catherine M.
