Mad to be Saved David Sterritt, 1998 Film critic David Sterritt presents an interdisciplinary exploration of the Beat Generation its intersections with main stream and experimental film and the interactions of all of these with American society and the culture of the 1950s Sterritt balances the Beat countercultural goal of rebellion through both artistic creation and everyday behavior against the mainstream values of conformity and conservatism growing worry over cold war hostilities and the rat race toward material success After an introductory overview of the Beat Generation its history its antecedents and its influences Sterritt shows the importance of visual thinking in the lives and works of major Beat authors most notably Jack Kerouac Allen Ginsberg and William S Burroughs He turns to Mikhail Bakhtin's dialogic theory to portray the Beat writers who were inspired by jazz and other liberating influences as carnivalesque rebels against what they perceived as a rigid and stifling social order Showing the Beats as social critics Sterritt looks at the work of 1950s photographers Robert Frank and William Klein the attack against Beat culture in the pictures and prose of Life magazine and the counterattack in Frank's film Pull My Daisy featuring key Beat personalities He further explores expressions of rebelliousness in film noir the melodramas of director Douglas Sirk and other Hollywood films Finally Sterritt shows the changing attitudes toward the Beat sensibility in Beat related Hollywood movies like A Bucket of Blood and The Beat Generation television programs like Route 66 and The Many Loves of Dobie Gillis nonstudio films like John Cassavetes's improvisational Shadows and Shirley Clarke's experimental The Connection and radically avant garde works by such doggedly independent screen artists as Stan Brakhage Ron Rice Bruce Connor and Ken Jacobs drawing connections between their achievements and the most subversive products of their Beat contemporaries

Guatemalan Journey Stephen Connely Benz, 2010-05-28 Guatemala draws some half million tourists each year whose brief visits to the ruins of ancient Maya cities and contemporary highland Maya villages may give them only a partial and folkloric understanding of Guatemalan society In this vividly written travel narrative Stephen Connely Benz explores the Guatemala that casual travelers miss using his encounters with ordinary Guatemalans at the mall on the streets at soccer games and even at the funeral of massacre victims to illuminate the social reality of Guatemala today The book opens with an extended section on the capital Guatemala City and then moves out to the more remote parts of the country where the Guatemalan Indians predominate Benz offers us a series of intelligent and sometimes humorous perspectives on Guatemala's political history and the role of the military the country's environmental degradation the influence of foreign missionaries and especially the impact of the United States on Guatemala from governmental programs to fast food franchises Billboard
