Learning and Teaching for Teachers Pradeep Kumar Misra, 2021-10-18. This book provides a comprehensive and balanced description of learning and teaching by connecting it to secondary and higher education teachers' experiences and practices in day-to-day life. Woven around research conducted by educationists, psychologists, and practitioners around the globe, this book presents key concepts and addresses significant discussions and concerns with regard to learning and teaching in the present age. Seeking to help teachers understand learners' learning needs, preferences, and styles and manage their teaching plans, priorities, and practices accordingly, it details the main ideas and emerging practices related to learning and teaching in a very easy-to-read, understand, and practice way. The first five chapters approach learning from different perspectives, while the next six explain in detail how to practice teaching to maximize learning outcomes. Combining the traditional textbook style approach of content description with a self-learning approach based on various real-world situations and activities related to both learning and teaching, this textbook is particularly valuable for teachers in school education, higher education, and teacher education. This book is also an essential resource for fulfilling teachers' continuing professional development requirements. Although intended for teachers worldwide, the book especially helps teachers in South Asian countries to improve learning outcomes in their classrooms and subsequently the quality of their education systems.

Life-span Developmental Psychology E. Mark Cummings, Anita L. Greene, Katherine H. Karraker, 2014-01-02. Although there has been a significant increase in studies of stress and coping processes in recent years, researchers have often approached these topics from rather narrow and constrained perspectives. Furthermore, little communication has occurred across disciplines and research directions, resulting in the emergence of several relatively isolated literatures. An outgrowth of the Eleventh Biennial West Virginia University Conference on Life Span Development, this volume emphasizes two major themes: the importance of taking a life-span approach to the study of stress and coping, and the development of new and more complete conceptual models of stress and coping processes. The first to approach these subjects from a life-span perspective, this book includes papers by distinguished researchers from each of the major periods of the life span and brings together the cognitive and socioemotional traditions in the study of dealing with pressures. The editors hope that this facilitation of communication among researchers with diverse views will help create a broadening and integration of perspectives.

Cognitive Perspectives on Children's Social and Behavioral Development M. Perlmutter,2014-01-14 This volume contains the papers presented at the eighteenth Minnesota Symposia on Child Psychology held October 27 29 1983 at the University of Minnesota Minneapolis As has been the tradition for this annual series the faculty of the Institute of Child Development invited internationally eminent researchers to present their research and to consider problems of mutual concern to scientists studying development The theme of the eighteenth symposium and the present volume was cognitive perspectives on social and behavior development Temperament Diana Wright Guerin,Allen W. Gottfried,Pamella H. Oliver,Craig W. Thomas,2012-12-06 Your good nature will bring you much happiness Peking Noodle Co We began this book with the belief that there are individual differences in tempera ment that impact the trajectory of the course of development

At a particular point in time the impact may be small but over time the effect of these small tweaks may come to be associated with significant and meaningful differences in our individual destinations In this book we examined the relations between temperament and various domains of development as well as the home and family environment to document the short and long term sequelae of various temperamental characteristics to test this belief It takes a certain temperamental profile to complete a collaborative longitudinal research project spanning two decades Especially during the project's early years when we were directly assessing the development of over 100 children twice yearly and visiting their homes high activity level was required Our biological rhythms were constantly disrupted as we worked to complete data coding we used punch cards then and checking before the next wave of assessments began We learned to approach new problems and tasks with intensity to be adaptable when appointments had to be rescheduled to be sensitive to changes in our study families situations and that a positive mood is essential We were not easily distracted from our goal of following the study participants through high school completion and our persistence has made all the difference
