The materials life cycle consists of several phases. If application areas are targeted for architecture, comprehending the demands of the end-use phase might not be clear at the research and development phase, leading to an entity appearing fragmented. The aim of this study is to help bring order to the material research or development phases. The objective is to generate a review tool, which helps to observe different areas where architecture operates, and contemplate simultaneously the aspects during the different phases of the material development. The review tool of the material life cycle consists of tracking the raw materials until the re-used raw material, resulting in eight different stages of the material life cycle. In addition, each of the eight stages of the material life cycle is possible to observe with the five different viewpoints, which are present in architecture. These eight material life cycle stages and five aspects have been formulated as a chart. The chart consists of 40 different approaches facilitating discussion between different operators during the different phases of the material development. The chart might help set goals, frame areas, and improve comprehension of the research and development processes of the materials, especially when interdisciplinarity is involved in the research process.

Keywords: architecture, interdisciplinarity, materials development, materials life cycle, materials research.

In architecture, construction materials have certain characteristics and aspects to fulfil depending on where and how they are applied. Traditionally, practitioners have obtained an intrinsic understanding of the materials by gathering knowledge when interacting with the materials on a practical level. Professionals, who are specialised in understanding the role of materials or methods in constructing, such as construction workers, craftspeople, builders, and architects, must understand the relatively simple processes involved therein. Due to this basic understanding, the communication between professionals is effortless because the targets are easy to discuss; the concepts are clear; and the materials or processes are well known. Though, when new technologies or materials are intended to be applied in the construction industry, special expertise is required (Gieseckam et al 2016).

In architecture, materials are not just thought to constitute the protective shells, carry loads, or divide spaces. The material palette utilised in architecture is in general extremely versatile. Different materials must play well together leading to a meaningful and pleasant spatial experience, noting the function of the building, demands of the user, cultural aspects of the context, and overall cost of the constructing. Without a holistic perspective, the outcomes might be very practical or technically competent, but they may not necessarily be easy to implement in a living environment, where various aspects are meaningful.

The Structure of Multimodal Dialogue II M. M. Taylor, F. Néel, Don G. Bouwhuis, 2000 Most dialogues are multimodal When people talk they use not only their voices but also facial expressions and other gestures and perhaps even touch When computers communicate with people they use pictures and perhaps sounds together with textual language and when people communicate with computers they are likely to use mouse gestures almost as much as words How are such multimodal dialogues constructed This is the main question addressed in this selection of papers of the second Venaco Workshop sponsored by the NATO Research Study Group RSG 10 on Automatic Speech Processing and by the European Speech Communication Association ESCA Agricultural Research in an Era of Adjustment Steven R. Narrative Pedagogy Ivor Goodson, Scherto Gill, 2011 It is widely recognised that we are living through an age of the narrative Many of the constituent disciplines in the social sciences resonate with this trend by using life history and narrative approaches and methods As we move on from the modernist period which prioritised objectivity into the postmodern regard for subjectivity this resort to narrative is likely to become more apparent and explicit in academic as well as social and commercial discourse One aspect of this narrative form which is commonly overlooked is that of the pedagogic encounter This is the phenomenon which is addressed by all narrative and biographical research Fundamentally reflecting and examining the narrative of our lives in the process of learning this book provides a series of studies and guidelines for what we have termed narrative pedagogy It presents a resource for an exploration of those narrative processes that can lead to meaningful change and development for individuals and groups within a learning environment and in life learning This focus on life history allows us to identify and support routes to learning within the narrative landscape of learners and through these pedagogic encounters

Dialogue and Culture Marion Grein, Edda Weigand, 2007 The volume deals with the relationship between language dialogue human nature and culture by focusing on an approach that considers culture to be a crucial component of dialogic interaction Part I refers to the so called language instinct debate between nativists and empiricists and introduces a mediating position that regards language and dialogue as determined by both human nature and culture This sets the framework for the contributions of Part II which propose varying theoretical positions on how to address the ways in which culture influences dialogue Part III presents more empirically oriented studies which demonstrate the interaction of components in the mixed game and focus in particular on specific action games politeness and selected verbal means of communication

Handbook of Research on Creating Motivational Online Environments for Students Bilodeau, Julie A., Hughes, Larry W., 2023-08-18 There are many ways to motivate students to achieve their academic and personal goals Due to the pandemic more emphasis has been placed on finding alternative approaches to instruct students Online learning has become the focal point of the educational setting and new approaches to teaching are necessary Since the change in delivery from face to face to online teachers have been faced with motivating their students in an environment that is new and foreign to them Teachers must find new methods to enhance their curriculum to motivate all students in this modality The Handbook of Research on Creating Motivational Online Environments for Students considers how online students learn and how they progress through the learning process The book also provides teaching techniques and technology that will improve motivational success for students in all modalities Covering topics such as student behavior online education and motivational techniques this premier reference source is ideal for administrators researchers academicians scholars practitioners instructors and students Regional Development Agencies: The Next Generation? Nicola Bellini, Mike Danson, Henrik Halkier, 2012-09-10 Across Europe regional development agencies RDAs have become a central feature of regional policy both as innovative policy makers and as the implementers of programmes and initiatives originating from the national or European level By drawing on a combination of conceptual reflection surveys comparative research and systematic use of critical case studies this book provides a new point of reference by identifying key features of the current and indeed next generation of regionally based economic development organisations Handbook of Research on the Impact of Culture in Conflict Prevention and Peacebuilding Essien, Essien, 2020-03-20 The contemporary conflict scenarios are beyond the reach of standardized approaches to conflict resolution Given the curious datum that culture is implicated in nearly every conflict in the world culture can also be an important aspect of efforts to transform destructive conflicts into more constructive social processes Yet what culture is and how culture matters in conflict scenarios is contested and regrettably unexplored The Handbook of Research on the Impact of Culture in Conflict Prevention and Peacebuilding is a critical publication that examines cultural differences in conflict resolution based on various aspects of culture such as morals traditions and laws Highlighting a wide range of topics such as criminal justice politics and technological development this book is essential for educators social scientists sociologists political leaders government officials academicians conflict resolution practitioners world peace organizations researchers and students The Oxford Handbook of Entrepreneurship and Collaboration Jeffrey J.
