Impact of Global University Ranking Systems on Developing Countries Onyancha, Omwoyo Bosire, Tella, Adeyinka, 2023-06-01 The emotive discourses on the subject of university rankings are directly linked to the effect of such rankings on the performance of universities throughout the world. It has been observed that the top ranked universities attract major financial commitments from the industry, the best students, quality researchers, and a wide range of other quality endowments such as equipment, libraries, and laboratories. It is not surprising that the ranking of universities has gained popularity and become a significant factor shaping not only the reputation of universities but also the performance of said institutions around the world, including the developing countries. Impact of Global University Ranking Systems on Developing Countries presents a collection of perspectives from scholars and other stakeholders on the impact of the global ranking systems on developing countries. The book is an additional resource for discussion and discourse as far as the global university ranking systems are concerned and opens new frontiers for further research. Covering key topics such as assessment, ethics, and academic freedom, this premier reference source is ideal for administrators, policymakers, researchers, scholars, academicians, practitioners, instructors, and students.

Access to Education and Health among Minority and Indigenous Communities in Kenya: Assessment of Baringo, Trans-Nzoia, Elgeyo Marakwet and Turkana Counties Geoffrey Kerosi, Samuel Olando, 2021-05-06 This study seeks to measure disparity in the enjoyment of health and education rights in Kenya, with a focus on minorities and indigenous peoples in Turkana, Elgeyo Marakwet, Trans Nzoia, and Baringo counties. It combines primary research with an analysis of Kenyan legislation, policies, and regulations alongside international standards that promote the rights to health and education. In particular, it examines Kenya's system of raising revenues, especially through taxation, and whether resources allocated towards the health and education sector benefit the country's most marginalized communities. While recognizing some improvements in recent years, Access to Education and Health among Minority and Indigenous Communities in Kenya

Assessment of Baringo Trans Nzoia Elgeyo Marakwet and Turkana Counties also highlights the continued challenges that constrain equitable and inclusive provision for marginalized groups in many parts of the country. From underspending to infrastructure gaps, lack of trained personnel, to limited engagement with civil society, it identifies a range of problems and concludes with a series of recommendations for local authorities and the national government to improve minority and indigenous access to these basic rights.

Transforming Healthcare in Africa Robert Dibié, 2025-01-14. The current available books and literature that shed light on health policies in many African countries are limited. Transforming Healthcare in Africa: A Comparative Analysis by Professor Robert Dibié examines the key players in the health system game in many African countries. It explores the regulatory regimes that impact the health systems, such as the Ministry of Health. It also provides a few case studies of the relationship between the government, the environment, and their citizens. Apart from filling the gap in the healthcare policy in African literature, the authors also seek to examine the impacts of weak health policies and the inability to effectively formulate solid initiatives for capacity building that could lead to enhanced healthcare delivery for all their citizens. Thus, Dibié's book provides evidence to inform scholarly discussion on the best approaches to strengthen healthcare delivery and public health capacity in many African countries. The book also sought to answer six research questions: 1. How is healthcare delivery perceived by African countries? 2. How are healthcare policies implemented in urban and rural regions or local governments in African countries? 3. To what extent are current health services delivered to respond to all citizens' needs in African countries? 4. What is the current capacity for rural or local governments to effectively engage in health service delivery? 5. How can citizens living in rural and urban regions be empowered in the health development delivery system? and 6. Which is the best evidence-based management system adopted to improve an affordable healthcare system in many African countries? It also fills the gap in the literature of health systems in Africa.
