Antwerp Royal Museum Annual 2013-2014 Paul Vandenbroeck, 2016-12-28 At various points over the course of the 20th century the Belgian State and its various ministries and provinces consciously chose to subsidise not only the fine arts but also the applied and decorative arts and in particular the art of weaving tapestry On the one hand orders were placed for World Exhibitions and for Belgian embassies and on the other competitions were held for tapestries to be hung in important locations such as the United Nations and NATO headquarters and the exhibitions that were organized by the various ministries over the years They provided an overview of the ways in which this branch of the arts was changing as well as representative work by the best tapestry designers The exhibitions organized by the provincial authorities give quite a different image There were the highly conventional exhibitions of Brabantine tapestries to promote the craftsmanship of the province and there were the more innovative textile exhibitions Taken as a whole the commissions competitions and exhibitions give a good overview of what was happening in Belgium in the field of tapestry over the period 1945-1980 They also make it clear what image was being projected abroad that of a country with rich traditions master craftsmanship in weaving and in the 1970s some affiliation to the latest developments in European textile art

Reforming Democracy Camille Bedock, 2017-05-12 When why and how are democratic institutions reformed This is the broad question guiding this research rooted in a context of crises of representative democracy Core democratic rules can be understood as the formal political rules regulating the direct relationship between elites within the political system parties and citizens They are therefore the cornerstone of the functioning of any political system This book deals with the context the motives and the mechanisms explaining the incidence of institutional engineering in consolidated European democracies between 1990 and 2015 It is centred on the choice of political elites to use or not to use institutional engineering as a response to the challenges they face This study provides both a better empirical understanding of the world of democratic reforms in consolidated democracies thanks to a new data set covering six dimensions of reform in 18 European countries Secondly the book provides evidence about the link between the lack of political support and democratic reforms and the role of electoral shifts in fostering reforms Thirdly this research shows that the final outcome of a given reform depends on the type of reform at stake and on the process used during the phase of discussion of the reform though case studies in Ireland France and Italy Ultimately the book demonstrates that contrary to what has been commonly assumed reforms of the core democratic rules are frequent and constitute in most cases an answer of challenged political elites to the erosion of political support and electoral change

State and Society in Communist Czechoslovakia Roman Kravinsky, 2020-02-20 Across central and eastern Europe after World War II the newly established communist regimes promised a drastic social revolution that would transform the world at great pace and pave the way to a socialist future Although many aspects of this utopian project are well known such as fast paced industrialisation collectivisation and urbanisation the regimes even sought to transform the ways in which their citizens interacted with each other and the world around them Using a unique analytical model based on an amalgam of anthropology sociology history and extensive archival research award winning scholar Roman Krakovsky here considers the Czechoslovakian attempt to reinvent the world time and space included in this all encompassing way Ranging from WWII to the fall of the Berlin Wall his innovative analysis variously considers the impact of Stakhanovism the impossible to achieve production targets intended to assert socialism s future potential the attempt to replace Sunday s Christian attributes with socialist ones and the profound changes brought about to the public and private spheres including the culture of informing and the ways this was circumvented Across a wide range of case studies Krakovsky demonstrates both the far reaching extent of the communist vision and the inherent flaws and contradictions that gradually destabilised it This in depth perspective is vital reading for all scholars of twentieth century history and politics

The Future of Financial Regulation Johan A. Lybeck, 2016-02-11 A number of changes have been made to the supervision and regulation of banks as a result of the recent financial meltdown. Some are for the better such as the Basel III rules for increasing the quality and quantity of capital in banks but legal changes on both sides of the Atlantic now make it much more difficult to resolve failing banks by means of taxpayer funded bail outs and could hinder bank resolution in future financial crises. In this book Johan A Lybeck uses case studies from Europe and the United States to examine and grade a number of bank resolutions in the last financial crisis and establish which were successful which failed and why. Using in depth analysis of recent legislation he explains how a bank resolution can be successful and emphasizes the need for taxpayer funded bail outs to create a viable banking system that will promote economic and financial stability.

Astrology, Almanacs, and the Early Modern English Calendar Phebe Jensen, 2020-11-22 Astrology Almanacs and the Early Modern English Calendar is a handbook designed to help modern readers unlock the vast cultural religious and scientific material contained in early modern calendars and almanacs. It outlines the basic cosmological astrological and medical theories that undergirded calendars, traces the medieval evolution of the calendar into its early modern format against the background of the English Reformation and presents a history of the English almanac in the context of the rise of the printing industry in England. The book includes a primer on deciphering early modern printed almanacs as well as an illustrated guide to the rich visual and verbal iconography of seasons, months and days of the week gathered from material culture, farming manuals, almanacs and continental prints. As a practical guide to English calendars and the social mathematical and scientific practices that inform them, Astrology Almanacs and the Early Modern English Calendar is an indispensable tool for historians, cultural critics and literary scholars working with the primary material of the period, especially those with interests in astrology, popular science, popular print, the book as material artifact and the history of time reckoning.

Holocene Settlement of the Egyptian Sahara Fred Wendorf, Romuald Schild, 2013-11-11 by Fred Wendorf and Romuald Schild. The Eastern Sahara is a fascinating place to study structures. These larger, more complex sites are almost prehistory. Confronted with the stark reality of a hyper-arid environment in the lower parts of large basins, most of which are arid and receive no measurable rainfall, were formed by deflation during the Late Pleistocene. Lacks vegetation and is seemingly without life. It would be a hyper-arid interval between about 65 000 and 13 000 years ago, seem to be an unlikely place to find a rich and complex world years ago. Their location near the floor of these basins, a mosaic of archaeological remains documenting past human presence was influenced primarily by one factor: water. During human presence, despite this impression of a hostile, wet phases runoff from extensive catchment areas, environment there is widespread and abundant, caused the development of large, deep seasonal lakes. Archaeological evidence or playas in the lowermost parts of these basins. This is obvious that this area was not always a lifeless surface. Water would last for several weeks or months in the desert. Faunal and plant remains found in the excavations after the seasonal rains and by digging wells after the at Holocene age settlements dating between 9500 and playa became dry water could still be obtained during 5000 radiocarbon years ago indicate that rainfall during most if not all of the dry season
