Rethinking Khoe and San Indigeneity, Language and Culture in Southern Africa Julie Grant, Keyan G. Tomaselli, 2022-09-19 The San hunter gatherers and Khoe herders of southern Africa were dispossessed of their land before, during and after the European colonial period which started in 1652 They were often enslaved and forbidden from practicing their culture and speaking their languages In South Africa under apartheid after 1948 they were reclassified as Coloured which further undermined Khoe and San culture forcing them to reconfigure and realign their identities and loyalties Southern Africa is no longer under colonial or apartheid rule the San and Khoe however continue in the struggle to maintain the remnants of their languages and cultures and are marginalised by the dominant peoples of the region The San in particular continue to command very extensive research attention from a variety of disciplines from anthropology and linguistics to genetics They are however usually studied as static historical objects but they are not merely peoples of the past as is often assumed they are very much alive in contemporary society with cultural and language needs This book brings together studies from a range of disciplines to examine what it means to be Indigenous Khoe and San in contemporary southern Africa It considers the current constraints on Khoe and San identity language and culture constantly negotiating an indeterminate social positioning where they are treated as the inconvenient indigenous Usually studied as original anthropos but out of their time this book shifts attention from the past to the present and how the San have negotiated language literacy and identity for coping in the period of modernity It reveals that Afrikaans is indeed an African language incubated not only by Cape Malay slaves working in the kitchens of the early Dutch settlers but also by the Khoe and San who interacted with sailors from passing ships plying the West coast of southern Africa from the 14th century The book re-examines the idea of literacy its relationship to language and how these shape identity The chapters in this book were originally published in the journal Critical Arts South North Cultural and Media Studies

Constraints on Language Variation and Change in Complex Multilingual Contact Settings Bertus van Rooy, Haidee Kotze, 2024-07-15 Constraints on Language Variation and Change in Complex Multilingual Contact Settings explores an innovative proposal that linguistic similarities identified in different forms of contact influenced varieties of language use including translation native and non native varieties of English and language use of bilinguals more generally can be accounted for in a coherent framework grounded in the notion of constrained communication These varieties have hitherto been studied in independent scholarly traditions especially translation studies and world Englishes leaving the potential underlying unity underexplored both conceptually and empirically The chapters collected in this volume aim to develop such a unified perspective by drawing on corpus data across a range of languages and language varieties with a focus on written language a neglected data source in research on multilingual contact settings The findings point to shared general characteristics across individual contact settings which result from probabilistically conditioned manifestations of the same deeper regularities constraints present in diverse language contact settings The Dynamics of English in Namibia Anne Schröder, 2021-09-15 The English language as spoken in Namibia has virtually been overlooked in most textbooks handbooks and surveys of varieties of English around the world or else has only been mentioned in passing However this variety of English has recently attracted the attention of several researchers and the present volume brings together most scholars actively involved in the research on English in Namibia from various linguistic fields to present their current research It covers a wide range of linguistic issues such as empirical analyses on various levels of linguistic description and use as well as the application of diverse methodologies from questionnaire surveys sociolinguistic interviews and focus group discussions to corpus linguistics linguistic landscaping and digital ethnography This book represents the first comprehensive collection of articles and in depth discussions of this emerging variety of World Englishes Indigenous Rights in the Modern Era Bertus de Villiers, 2023-06-26 International law is rich in promise but poor in detail and practical application about the rights of indigenous people This book focuses on practical measures that have been implemented in states to give effect to free prior and informed consent FPIC self determination by indigenous people special electoral measures to benefit indigenous people and the role of advisory bodies to advocate for indigenous interests In many comparative works there are often only scant or brief reference to some country experiences but in this book several case studies are explored in depth to promote a greater understanding of the self determination arrangements that have been implemented These case studies represent a form of glocalisation whereby global principles are applied to find local solutions and local solutions in turn inform greater clarity and specificity to global principles At the end of each chapter key lessons that can be drawn from the respective case studies are identified in the hope that those may inform developments in other countries and in international law
