Powerful Geography Michael Solem, Richard G. Boehm, Joann Zadrozny, 2024-03-25 This book presents the evolution of the Powerful Geography approach to teaching and learning in the United States and how the approach can be adapted and implemented in other countries Powerful Geography acknowledges the remarkable diversity that exists in classrooms the wide ranging interests of modern students and the desire of these students to translate dynamic subject matter into useful information and concepts a process that is consistent with modern educational theory For Powerful Geography to work in secondary and postsecondary education teachers and university professors must adapt and teach geography as a critical training where individual students see opportunities to apply geography content skills and technology to real world problems that they care about This book challenges geography educators at all levels to strengthen their applied curriculum in order to help students prepare for jobs and careers in broad areas such as climate change migration environmental protection natural resources energy development and use transport planning supply chain logistics global trade national security and infrastructure

Systematic Reviews of Research in Basic Education in South Africa Felix Maringe, 2021-04-09 Maringe ought to be commended for putting together an invaluable contribution to our understanding of research into a complex education system in South Africa This volume provides a useful foundation to the current state of education quality in South Africa including the impact of interventions It also brings to the fore challenges still facing education transformation The evidence presented which taken together lays out a coherent view of how improvements could be made Albert Chanee Head of Planning Gauteng Department of Education For too long the weight of educational scholarship produced in South Africa has been limited to that simple and standard form called the literature review Now for the first time education researchers are provided with an African based text on the concepts and methods of conducting systematic reviews In this exceptional work of editorship Felix Maringe brings together some of the leading researchers on South African education to model and demonstrate how to review a significant body of research on a chosen topic which is adjudicated strictly on the basis of the quality and efficacy of the evidence in hand I have no doubt that this remarkable book will become a standard reference for educational researchers in and beyond the African continent It will also lift the quality of educational inquiry by equipping a new generation of scholars with the capacity for doing evidence based research that compels the attention of policymakers planners and practitioners alike Prof Jonathan Jansen Stellenbosch University

Geography Education Research in the UK: Retrospect and Prospect Graham Butt, 2019-08-22 This book provides a unique assessment of the development of research in geography education and its future prospects offering a challenging critique of subject based education research with particular reference to geography education across a range of different jurisdictions It covers a range of topics including the changing role of research in geography education the relationship between education research and professional practice with special reference to geography education research the place of academic subject knowledge in geography education research critiques of the functions of research in geography education and the key issues for education policy and policymakers concerning educational research at national and international levels. Importantly in a period marked by radical change for education research and researchers the book offers a timely appraisal of possible ways forward for geography education research. Addressing the needs of academics, research students, policymakers and education practitioners who undertake use or shape the future of research in geography education, it comprehensively explores the forces that have driven the development of geography education research and pedagogy. Further by positioning its analysis in the context of education policy debates in the UK and further afield, it assesses the role and function of research in education and offers an outlook on its future. This book is essential reading for all those who wish to understand the sporadic and increasingly uncertain development of subject based research in education. Education for All 2000-2015:

Achievements and challenges UNESCO, 2015-04-08 Literaturverz S 414 459 Geography Education for Global Understanding Ali Demirci, Rafael de Miguel González, Sarah Witham Bednarz, 2018-04-26 This book presents the core concepts of geographical education as a means of understanding global issues from a spatial perspective. It treats education supported by high standards, approaches, methodologies and resources as essential in exploring the interactions of the world's human and environmental systems at local, regional and global scales embedded in the nature of the discipline of geography. It covers topics such as climate change, sustainable development goals, geopolitics in an uncertain world, global crisis and population flows which are of great interest to geography researchers and social sciences educators who want to explore the complexity of contemporary societies. Highly respected scholars in geography education answer questions on key topics and explain how global understanding is considered in K-12 education in significant countries around the globe. The book discusses factors such as the Internet, social media, virtual globes and other technological developments that provide insights into and visualization in real time of the intensity of relationships between different countries and regions of the earth. It also examines how this does not always lead to empathy with other political, cultural, social and religious values, terrorism threats and armed conflicts are also essential features of the global world. This book opens the dialogue for global understanding as a great opportunity for teachers, educators, scholars and policy makers to better equip students and future citizens to deal with global issues. Cities and Networks Neal, Zachary P.,Rozenblat, Céline,2021-07-31 This Handbook of Cities and Networks provides a cutting edge overview of research on how economic social and transportation networks affect processes both in and between cities Exploring the ways in which cities connect and intertwine it offers a varied set of collaborations highlighting different theoretical historical and methodological perspectives Assessment in Geographical Education: An International

Perspective Theresa Bourke,Reece Mills,Rod Lane,2022-02-27 In recent years there has been increased attention paid to the importance of assessment in Geographical Education the chosen subject for this book Assessment is an important tool for collecting information about student learning and for providing timely data to inform key stakeholders including students teachers parents and policymakers To be effective assessment needs to be valid reliable and fair Validity is about ensuring that we assess what we claim we are assessing Reliability is about measuring performance and understanding in a consistent way Without validity and reliability assessment is unlikely to provide equitable opportunities for students to demonstrate what they know and can do As geography educators it is therefore important that we identify the core concepts and skills in geography that we want students to master We need a clear understanding of what the progression of learning looks like for each concept and skill so we can develop fit for purpose assessments that track and improve student learning While there is a substantial literature on evidence based assessment in secondary school contexts research exploring best practice assessment in geography is rare This is a concern given the distinctive nature of geography and the important role of assessment in the learning process This scholarly collection seeks to address this issue by connecting research in educational assessment with the domain of geography The chapters are written by leading researchers in Geographical Education from across the globe These chapters provide examples of innovation through the collective voices of geography teacher educator scholars from across Australia USA South Korea Germany Switzerland and Singapore What unifies the work in this book is that each chapter focuses on a key feature of the discipline of geography providing scholarly examples of evidence based practices for assessing student s knowledge and skills

Walking Through Social Research Charlotte Bates, Alex Rhys-Taylor, 2017-04-11 As an ethnographic method, walking has a long history but it has only recently begun to attract focused attention. By walking alongside participants, researchers have been able to observe, experience and make sense of a broad range of everyday practices. At the same time, the idea of talking and walking with participants has enabled research to be informed by the landscapes in which it takes place. By sharing conversations in place and at the participants' pace, sociologists are beginning to develop both a feel for and a theoretical understanding of the transient, embodied and multisensual aspects of walking. The result, as this collection demonstrates, is an understanding of the social world evermore congruent with people's lived experiences of it. This interdisciplinary collection comprises a unique journey through a variety of walking methodologies. The collection highlights a range of possibilities for enfolding sound, smell, emotion, movement and memory into our accounts, illustrating the sensuousness, skill, pitfalls and rewards of walking as a research practice. Each chapter draws on original empirical research to present ways of walking and to discuss the conceptual, practical and technical issues that walking entails. Alongside feet on the ground, the devices and technologies that make up hybrid research mobilities are brought to attention. The collection is bookended by two short pedestrian essays that take the reader on illustrative urban walks, suggesting routes through the city as well as ways in which the reader might make their own path through walking methods. An innovative title, Walking Through Social Research, will be of interest to undergraduate and postgraduate students, researchers and academics who are interested in Sociology, Geography, Cultural Studies, Urban Studies and Qualitative Research Methods.

Understanding Cultural Geography Jon Anderson, 2015-03-24 Understanding Cultural Geography: Places and Traces offers a comprehensive introduction to perhaps the most exciting and challenging area of human geography. By focusing on the notion of place as a key means through which culture and identity is grounded, the book showcases the broad range of theories, methods and practices used within the discipline. This book not only introduces the reader to the rich and complex history of cultural geography but also the key terms on which the discipline is built. From these insights, the book approaches place as an ongoing composition of traces, highlighting the dynamic and ever-changing nature of the world around us. The second edition has been fully revised and updated to incorporate recent literature and up to date case studies It also adopts a new seven section structure and benefits from the addition of two new chapters Place and Mobility and Place and Language Through its broad coverage of issues such as age race scale nature capitalism and the body the book provides valuable perspectives into the cultural relationships between people and place Anderson gives critical insights into these important issues helping us to understand and engage with the various places that make up our lives Understanding Cultural Geography is an ideal text for students being introduced to the discipline through either undergraduate or postgraduate degree courses The book outlines how the theoretical ideas empirical foci and methodological techniques of cultural geography illuminate and make sense of the places we inhabit and contribute to This is a timely update on a highly successful text that incorporates a vast foundation of knowledge an invaluable book for lecturers and students

A Guide to Teaching in the Active Learning Classroom Paul Baepler,J. D. Walker,D. Christopher Brooks,Kem Saichaie,Christina I. Petersen,2023-07-03 While Active Learning Classrooms or ALCs offer rich new environments for learning they present many new challenges to faculty because among other things they eliminate the room s central focal point and disrupt the conventional seating plan to which faculty and students have become accustomed The importance of learning how to use these classrooms well and to capitalize on their special features is paramount The potential they represent can be realized only when they facilitate improved learning outcomes and engage students in the learning process in a manner different from traditional classrooms and lecture halls This book provides an introduction to ALCs briefly covering their history and then synthesizing the research on these spaces to provide faculty with empirically based practical guidance on how to use these unfamiliar spaces effectively Among the questions this book addresses are How can instructors mitigate the apparent lack of a central focal point in the space What types of learning activities work well in the ALCs and take advantage of the affordances of the room How can teachers address familiar classroom management challenges in these unfamiliar spaces If assessment and rapid feedback are critical in active learning how do they work in a room filled with circular tables and no central focus point How do instructors balance group learning with the needs of the larger class How can students be held accountable when many will necessarily have their backs facing the instructor How can instructors evaluate the effectiveness of their teaching in these spaces This book is intended for faculty preparing to teach in or already working in this new classroom environment for administrators planning to create ALCs or experimenting with provisionally designed rooms and for faculty developers helping teachers transition to using these new spaces
