Crafting an essay on the topic of "Nurture vs Nature" is undeniably challenging, as it delves into the intricate interplay between genetic predispositions and environmental influences on human development. The complexity lies in navigating the nuanced arguments surrounding the impact of genetics versus the role of upbringing and environmental factors in shaping an individual's traits, behavior, and overall personality.

Addressing this topic requires a thorough understanding of genetics, psychology, sociology, and various other disciplines. The writer must navigate the vast body of research and conflicting theories, presenting a well-balanced and informed perspective. Balancing the scales between nature and nurture without oversimplifying or neglecting one side poses a considerable challenge. It's not just a matter of presenting facts but also interpreting and synthesizing information to build a coherent and persuasive argument.

Moreover, delving into the philosophical implications of the nature vs. nurture debate adds an additional layer of difficulty. Writers must grapple with questions about free will, determinism, and the very essence of what makes us human. This requires a thoughtful exploration of ethical considerations and a deep dive into the philosophical underpinnings of the debate.

In conclusion, writing an essay on the "Nurture vs Nature" topic demands a comprehensive understanding of various academic disciplines, critical thinking skills, and the ability to synthesize complex information. It's a challenging endeavor that requires a delicate balance between acknowledging the significance of both nature and nurture in shaping human development. While the study of the history of rhetoric has expanded to include an ever growing range of rhetorical traditions lesser known figures and under and un studied texts it has continued to exist in the hermetically sealed binary of West and Rest Rhetorical scholars have begun uncovering the many marginalized rhetorical traditions silenced by the homogenous nature of our histories themselves reading and writing new histories of the rhetorical tradition through frames from gender to geography Despite these substantial challenges to the traditionally received history of rhetoric many voices are still silenced and many spaces are still excluded voices speaking within the spaces of the less than monolithic West itself This silencing and excluding continues perhaps because of assumptions that no texts exist from these marginalized voices or that substantial rhetorical activity was not conducted in these marginalized spaces regardless of already extant evidence of rhetorical activity as diverse as rural civic ethos in Classical Greece and Etruscan influences on Roman rhetoric or long standing passive knowledge of scholarly activity in Medieval Andalusia and Ireland Rhetoric in the Rest of the West attempts to expand the conversation in those gaps in the history of rhetoric by examining the traditions that lost the cultural competition and have been shrouded in the shadow of the rhetorical tradition
