

IN CONGRESS. JULY 4, 1776.

United States of America
Unanimous Declaration of the thirteen united States of America

When in the course of human events it becomes necessary for one people to dissolve the political bands which have connected them with another, and to assume among the powers of the earth, the separate and equal station to which the laws of Nature and of Nature's God entitle them, a decent respect to the opinions of mankind requires that they should declare the causes which impel them to the separation.

We hold these truths to be self-evident, that all men are created equal, that they are endowed by their Creator with certain unalienable Rights, that among these are Life, Liberty and the pursuit of Happiness. — That to secure these rights, Governments are instituted among Men, deriving their just powers from the consent of the governed, — That whenever any Form of Government becomes destructive of these ends, it is the Right of the People to alter or to abolish it, and to institute new Government, laying its foundation on such Principles and organizing its Powers in such form, as shall seem most likely to effect their Safety and Happiness. Prudence, in such cases, shall dictate the Form, the Time, the Place, and the Manner of approaching to this separation. We have accordingly to the United States of America, in Congress assembled, declared our separation from Great Britain, and we have assumed the separate and equal station to which the Laws of Nature and of Nature's God entitle us. We the Representatives of the United States of America, in Congress assembled, solemnly publish and declare, That the United States are, of right, free and independent States, that they are absolved from all allegiance to the British Crown, and that all future Interactions between us and the said Kingdom shall be on equal Terms of Peace and Amity, which we have and shall henceforth maintain.
