Crisis and Body Politics in Twenty-First Century Cultural Production Charlotte Spear, Madeleine Sinclair, 2025-01-31 The twenty first century has been deemed the Age of Crisis We are witnessing the catastrophic unfolding of environmental crisis financial crisis pandemic and conflict But are we to understand these crises as new phenomena Is their seemingly simultaneous existence purely coincidental Or rather do they instead form part of a singular historically produced unfolding crisis which only today has reached a generalised consciousness And perhaps most urgently how far can we separate the crises of human experience from those exacted upon the land The chapters collected in Crisis and Body Politics in Twenty First Century Cultural Production Territorial Bodies deploy the framework of Territorial Bodies to address urgent social ecological and political challenges Examining themes such as inter national bodily governance racialised bodies eco feminist movements spatial justice and bodily displacement this collection provides a deeper analysis of the interconnected forms of violence perpetrated against marginalised human and non human bodies taking this combined violence as the defining feature of contemporary crisis

Political Ecologies of COVID-19 Andrea J. Nightingale, Seema Arora-Jonsson, Nitin Devdas Rai, Juanita Sundberg, 2023-08-02 By March 2020 COVID 19 had affected nearly every community on earth either with infections or with mobility restrictions Significant peer reviewed research effort has gone into understanding the virus and its spread mainly from an epidemiological and medical perspective Political ecologists have been somewhat critical of such analyses because of their failure to understand the sociality of COVID 19 and its emergence They emphasise the need to look for how the virus has acted upon inclusions and exclusions and current cleavages in society despite the fact that it can potentially attack anyone anywhere Commentaries have therefore drawn attention to the more than human assemblages that allowed COVID 19 to infect humans global food chains and capitalism and social inequalities that underpin uneven exposure and access to health care In this Research Topic we seek papers that engage with political ecologies of COVID 19 We welcome articles that are based on empirical research in specific contexts attempting to understand the impacts of the viral outbreak as well as articles which lay out research agendas for political ecologies of COVID 19 What questions need to be asked What does it mean to take a socio-natural and political ecological approach What can we learn from the state's response in different places How can such analyses add to the global conversation about the pandemic

Men, Wage Work and Family Paula McDonald, Emma Jeanes, 2012-08-06 In the last two decades there has been a plethora of research on a range of subjects collectively and rhetorically known as work life balance The bulk of this research which spans disciplines including feminist sociology industrial relations and management has focused on the significant concerns of employed women and or dual career couples Less attention has been devoted to scholarship which explicitly examines men and masculinities in this context Meanwhile public and organizational discourse is largely espoused in gender neutral terms often neglecting salient gendered issues which differentially impact the ability of women and men to successfully integrate their work and non work lives This edited book brings together empirical studies of the work life nexus with a specific focus on men's working time arrangements how men navigate and traverse paid work and family commitments and the impact of public and organizational policies on men's participation in work leisure and other life domains The book is innovative in that it presents both macro institutional how policy affects practice and micro individual from men's own perspectives level studies allowing for a rich and contrasting exploration of how men's participation in paid work and other domains is divided conflicted or integrated The essays in this volume address issues of fundamental social labor market and economic change which have occurred over the last 20 years and which have profoundly affected the way work care leisure and community have evolved in different contexts Taking an international focus Men Wage Work and Family contrasts various public and organizational policies and how these policies impact men s opportunities and participation in paid work and non work domains in industrialised countries in Europe North America and Australia
