Every Hill a Burial Place Peter H. Reid, 2020-09-01 On March 28 1966 Peace Corps personnel in Tanzania received word that volunteer Peppy Kinsey had fallen to her death while rock climbing during a picnic Local authorities arrested Kinsey s husband Bill and charged him with murder as witnesses came forward claiming to have seen the pair engaged in a struggle The incident had the potential to be disastrous for both the Peace Corps and the newly independent nation of Tanzania Because of the high stakes surrounding the trial questions remain as to whether there was more behind the final not guilty verdict than was apparent on the surface Peter H Reid who served as a Peace Corps volunteer in Tanzania at the time of the Kinsey murder trial draws on his considerable legal experience to expose inconsistencies and biases in the case He carefully scrutinizes the evidence and the investigation records providing insight into the motives and actions of both the Peace Corps representatives and the Tanzanian government officials involved Reid does not attempt to prove the verdict wrong but examines the events of Kinsey s death her husband s trial and the aftermath through a variety of cultural and political perspectives Meticulously researched and replete with intricate detail this compelling account sheds new light on a notable yet overlooked international incident involving non state actors in the Cold War era

The Experiment Must Continue Melissa Graboyes, 2015-11-09 The Experiment Must Continue is a beautifully articulated ethnographic history of medical experimentation in East Africa from 1940 through 2014 In it Melissa Graboyes combines her training in public health and in history to treat her subject with the dual sensitivities of a medical ethicist and a fine historian She breathes life into the fascinating histories of research on human subjects elucidating the hopes of the interventionists and the experiences of the putative beneficiaries Historical case studies highlight failed attempts to eliminate tropical diseases while modern examples delve into ongoing malaria and HIV AIDS research Collectively these show how East Africans have perceived research differently than researchers do and that the active participation of subjects led to the creation of a hybrid ethical form By writing an ethnography of the past and a history of the present Graboyes casts medical experimentation in a new light and makes the resounding case that we must readjust our dominant ideas of consent participation and exploitation With global implications this lively book is as relevant for scholars as it is for anyone invested in the place of medicine in society Grant$ for Social and Political Science Programs ,1992
