Bagley, 2010-03-29 This book inquires about the processes through which different higher education systems have determined national higher education policies related to competitiveness as well as the strategies they have adopted to enhance their global competitiveness African Womanhood and the Feminist Agenda Musingafi, Maxwell Constantine Chando, Hungwe, Chipso, 2024-01-16 Within academic circles there is a longstanding issue concerning the portrayal and understanding of African womanhood. Frequently these narratives are crafted by outsiders predominantly Western scholars often distorting the lived experiences and unique perspectives of African women. This has led to a skewed and sometimes negative perception of African women reinforcing stereotypes and sidelining their voices in critical discussions. Moreover this misrepresentation has real world consequences as it impacts social justice initiatives and development projects that rely on misguided narratives rather than the authentic voices of African women. African Womanhood and the Feminist Agenda emerges as an essential solution to the misrepresentation of African women. This comprehensive and meticulously researched book offers an alternative narrative one that is rooted in African perspectives and experiences. It addresses the historical cultural and political dimensions of African womanhood providing a rich and nuanced understanding of this multifaceted topic.

Kenyan Public Universities in the Age of Internationalization Iddah Aoko Otieno, 2018-06-20 This book presents a comprehensive institutional level analysis of a single public institution of higher education in the Republic of Kenya using the case study method of investigation. It is the first case study to use both qualitative and quantitative research methodology to illuminate the experiences of Kenyan public universities with internationalization post independence. Focusing on Kenya's oldest national public university the University of Nairobi's experimentation with internationalization Kenyan Public Universities in the Age of Internationalization is a first in the East African region. The book argues that attempts by institutions of higher education in Africa to engage in internationalization with the much more older and well established IHEs in the developed world has perpetuated the colonial legacy that has relegated these institutions to the position of the Other in the new international order. Several policy implications are offered on what it means to participate in internationalization from a marginal peripheral position. The conventional assumption that political independence would bring to most African countries and by extension their national public universities a period of freedom from political economic and cultural subjugation and exploitation by the more powerful world nations has proved elusive. This book is intended for a broad audience in the field of Comparative International Education. The mixed research methods used in this book will certainly appeal to instructors students and general readers interested in understanding the experiences of historically marginalized developing World institutions of higher education with internationalization.

Informal Public Transport in Practice Meleckidzedek Khayesi, Fredrick Muyia Nafukho, 2016-03-03 Transport discourse often concentrates on what is missing from transport policy and practice in developing countries vis vis high income countries rather than articulating local creativity in responding to transport needs as revealed in informal public transport modes such as matatu motorcycle bicycle and animal transport This book helps to correct some of the tendency of inadequate contextualization of knowledge technology and practice learning and transfer from one setting to another in transport and other development programmes While countries such as Kenya have ambitions to develop their transport systems to fit into the globalized transport system they also need to plan transport for ordinary life in both urban and rural areas The matatu service provided by privately owned transport carriers can be seen as a mirror of the life of Kenya revealing how indigenous African entrepreneurship and capitalism straddles various economic political and social systems This book offers a phenomenological and situated analysis of the matatu entrepreneurship in the political economy of Kenya and its embeddedness in society By adopting a social science approach this book highlights a number of political social and practical issues to demonstrate the matatu is not a decontextualized disembodied and lifeless piece of moving metal carrying people and goods but rather part of a self organizing industry with its own logic of practice This book is dedicated to Ajanga Khayesi
