Das, Rukundo Bosco Johnson, 2020-07-01 This volume represents a cornucopia of research studies coming out of an international conference held in Kigali Rwanda in 2018 The essays comprise contributions on various microeconomic and macroeconomic policy angles that are crucial for a less developed economy to embark on a road to recovery to converge with the desired trajectory. The topics encompass a broad range of issues like the role of savings, capital formation, human capital, innovations, entrepreneurship, profit shifting by multinational corporations, small and medium enterprises, SMEs, and firms' strategies for achieving sustained and balanced growth. The chapters are organized under three major themes based on the commonality of areas that they cover: i) Macroeconomic Constraints: Monetary Policy, Investments and Population; ii) Firms' Performance: SMEs and Role of Entrepreneurship; and iii) Entrepreneurship and Business Performance: Strategies and Policies. It has a collection of 12 empirical studies that have an overall focus on macroeconomic policies such as savings among the rural poor, sustained investments in and development of capital markets, role of entrepreneurial sustainability, role of innovations for firms' performance, healthcare reforms, the benefits of technology, policy incentives such as tax benefits for promoting growth, and strategic considerations such as marketing or positioning strategies, export strategies, and productivity enhancement via processing and profit sharing. With contributions from 27 authors, the studies bring forth knowledge about the factors that influence well-being via better technologies and innovations favoring productivity, firm performance, and their positive externalities in the food, nutrition, and health sectors. Given the wide-ranging coverage of top-down and bottom-up approaches and strategies for development, the book offers insights for policy interventions necessary for Rwanda's gradual transition from agriculture to an industrial transformation via manufacturing and service-led development without smokestack industries.

Introducing Foreign Models for Development Izumi Ohno, Kimiaki Jin, Kuniaki Amatsu, Junichi Mori, 2023-10-03. This open access book studies how foreign models of economic development can be effectively learned by and applied to today's latecomer countries. Policy capacity and societal learning are increasingly stressed as pre-conditions for successful catch-up. However, how such learning should be initiated by individual societies with different features needs to be explained. The book answers this pragmatic question from the perspective of Japan's past experience and its extensive development cooperation in Asia, Africa, and Latin America. Since the late nineteenth century, Japan has developed a unique philosophy and method for adopting advanced technologies and systems from the West; the same philosophy and method govern its current cooperation with the developing world. The key concepts are local learning and translative adaptation. Local learning says that development requires the learner to adopt a proactive mindset and the goal of graduating from receiving aid. Meanwhile, translative adaptation requires foreign models be modified to fit local realities given the different structures of the home and foreign society. The development process must be wholly owned by the domestic society in rejection of copy and paste acceptance. These ideas not only informed Japan but are key to successful development for all. The book also asks how this learning method should or should not be revised in the age of SDGs and digitalization. Following the overview section that lays out the general principles, the book offers many real cases from Japan and other countries. The concrete actions outlined in these cases with close attention to individual growth ingredients as opposed to general theories are crucial to successful policy making The book contains materials that are highly useful for national leaders and practitioners within developing countries as well as students of development studies
