Imagining the American West through Film and Tourism Warwick Frost, Jennifer Laing, 2015-06-05 The West is one of the strongest and most enduring place images in the world and its myth is firmly rooted in popular culture whether novels film television music clothing and even video games The West combines myth and history rugged natural scenery and wide open spaces popular culture and promises of transformation These imagined places draw in tourists attracted by a cultural heritage that is part fictional and mediated In turn tourism operators and destination marketing organisations refashion what they present to fit these imagined images This book explores this imagining of a mythic West through three key themes travel film and frontiers to offer new insight into how the imagination of the West and popular culture has influenced the construction of tourism In doing so it examines the series of paradoxes that underlie the basic appeal of the West evocative frontier a boundary zone between civilisation and wilderness and between order and lawlessness It draws on a range of films and literature as well as varying places from festivals to national parks to showcase different aspects of the nexus between travel film and frontiers in this fascinating region Interdisciplinary in character it includes perspectives from cultural studies American studies tourism and film studies Written by leading academics this title will be valuable reading for students researchers and academics in the fields of cultural studies tourism film studies and media studies and all those interested in film tourism

Decline and Reimagination in Cinematic New York Cortland Rankin, 2022-09-02 Decline and Reimagination in Cinematic New York examines the cinematic representation of New York from the mid 1960s through the mid 1980s placing the dominant discourse of urban decline in dialogue with marginal perspectives that reimagine the city along alternative paths as a resilient adaptive and endlessly inspiring place Drawing on mainstream independent documentary and experimental films the book offers a multifaceted account of the power of film to imagine the city's decline and reimagine its potential The book analyzes how filmmakers mobilized derelict space and various articulations of nature as settings and signifiers that decenter traditional understandings of the city to represent New York alternately as a desolate wasteland a hostile wilderness a refuge and playground for outcasts a home to resilient and resourceful communities a studio for artistic experimentation an arcadia conducive to alternative social arrangements and a complex ecosystem This book will be of interest to scholars and students of film studies media studies urban cinema urban studies and eco cinema
