Contemporary dance often seems to contend with issues of understanding regularly being read in languages which alienate it. Even if emotion seems a significant part of people's engagement with dance its workings are often surrounded by an air of mysticism. Engaging with these issues this study investigates the experience of emotion in Euro American contemporary dance theatre. It questions its dependence on the artist's personal emotions and the assumption that it is mediated by representational meaning. Instead this book proposes that the emotional import of dance emerges from an interplay between perceptual properties and symbolic elements in an embodied affective cognitive experience. This experience includes the background of the spectator as well as the context of work choreographer performer's and other creative agents.

Why is it easy to tell the difference between a flute and a clarinet even if they are playing exactly the same note? Why do ten violins sound only twice as loud as one? What is perfect pitch and do I have it?
