

Act Two Standards Focus: Types of Conflict

Name _____

Date _____

Conflict is a struggle, even including the struggle between two or more opposing forces identified in a story world. It can be a biological, emotional, spiritual, or physical. There are several types of conflict:

- 1) man vs. nature — struggle between a character and natural forces
- 2) man vs. man — struggle between characters, companies, groups, or physical institutions
- 3) man vs. society — struggle between a character and society's rules or traditions
- 4) man vs. self — struggle between a character and his or her inner beliefs, emotions, or a longing for something
- 5) supernatural — struggle between a character and the forces of the supernatural world, spirits, or human happenings

In addition, conflict can be identified as external or internal conflict. External conflict is when a person faces an outside force, such as another person, nature, or society. Internal conflict is when a person faces a conflict within themselves, such as a moral dilemma or a struggle with their own emotions.

Remember that each of the following questions must be answered in the story world, not in the real world. If the answer is "yes," then the conflict is internal. If the answer is "no," then the conflict is external.

1. Does the conflict involve a struggle between two or more forces? If yes, then the conflict is external. If no, then the conflict is internal.

Opposing forces: _____

Type of conflict: _____

Is the conflict internal? _____

2. Does the conflict involve a struggle between two or more forces? If yes, then the conflict is external. If no, then the conflict is internal.

Opposing forces: _____

Type of conflict: _____

Is the conflict internal? _____

3. Does the conflict involve a struggle between two or more forces? If yes, then the conflict is external. If no, then the conflict is internal.

Conservation and Recreation in Protected Areas Yun Ma, 2016-05-12 This book provides a comprehensive and up to date comparative study of the management and resolution of conflicts between conservation and recreation in protected areas in the US and China Competing claims on the use of nature increasing regulation of land use and recreational activities and the conflicting goals between conservation and development have led to a rise in conflicts in the designation and management of protected areas How to effectively manage and resolve these conflicts has become a challenge for both legislators and managers By adopting an institutional dimension in legal interpretation this book critically examines how such conflicts are dealt with in the legal regimes of the US and China while exploring interactions between legislatures agencies and courts The book searches for a plausible solution to improve the legal framework of protected areas in China by emulating pertinent mechanisms developed in the US whilst also presenting legal and policy recommendations to the US This informative book will be useful for legal scholars in Chinese law nature conservation law administrative law and comparative law The Protection of Foreign Investment in Times of Armed Conflict Jure Zrilic, 2019 Foreign investors often sustain injuries during international armed conflicts This book sets out to explore how effective investment treaty protections really are It designs an analytical framework that purports to explain and evaluate how effective and appropriate the application of the investment treaty regime is in times of armed conflict

Handbook of Policing, Ethics, and Professional Standards Allyson MacVean, Peter Spindler, Charlotte Solf, 2012 Low confidence in the police and the increasing crime rates during the 1990s led to a series of government initiatives directed at changing both the structure and management of the police service In 2006 in an attempt to define what a principled police service should resemble the Home Office Minister Hazel Blears announced the development of new Code of Professional Standards for the police service informed by the Taylor Review of 2005 While there has been a growing awareness of the role of Professional Standards within law enforcement activity to date there has been little scholarly debate on the understanding of ethics and how that is applied to practical policing This book provides a single text of different perspectives on how professional standards and ethics has been conceptualised and developed into practical policing processes for the purposes of policing not only by the police but also by the partner agencies Leading academics and practitioners consider the moral minefield of policing through examinations of undercover operatives MI5 and deaths in police custody as well as looking forward to the future considerations and practices in professional conduct It will be of interest to those working within the field of policing as well as students and academics focussed on policing and criminal justice Minnesota Law Review, 2011-04 European Corporate Law Adriaan F.M. Dorresteyn et al., 2022-07-26 This fully updated new edition provides an overview of the law regarding companies business organizations and capital markets in Europe at both the European Union EU and Member State levels It introduces the reader to the EU harmonization programme and describes how this has influenced corporate law in the various EU Member States The authors describe common denominators as well as differences in the approach of national corporate laws The authors highlight current and emerging trends in these areas of corporate law including the freedom of establishment of companies within the EU the European harmonization process and Member States implementation of EU legislation employee involvement in business organizations the division of power between the different corporate bodies the functioning and regulation of company groups and cross border business combinations takeovers and restructuring tools The laws of France Germany and the Netherlands in particular are discussed and contrasted This discussion also includes the United Kingdom although no longer an EU Member State As in earlier editions the authors demonstrate that analysis and comparison of national corporate laws yield highly valuable general principles and observations not least because business organizations wherever located tend to show a fundamentally similar set of legal characteristics The Fourth Edition will continue to be of great value to practitioners and academics who wish to acquire a better understanding of European corporate law in its supranational dimension as well as in the similarities and differences among the various national legal systems It can also be used as a handbook for comparative corporate law courses

Finding What Works in Health Care Institute of Medicine, Board on Health Care Services, Committee on Standards for Systematic Reviews of Comparative Effectiveness Research, 2011-06-20 Healthcare decision makers in search of reliable information that compares health interventions increasingly turn to systematic reviews for the best summary of the evidence Systematic reviews identify select assess and synthesize the findings of similar but separate studies and can help clarify what is known and not known about the potential benefits and harms of drugs devices and other healthcare services Systematic reviews can be helpful for clinicians who want to integrate research findings into their daily practices for patients to make well informed choices about their own care for professional medical societies and other organizations that develop clinical practice guidelines Too often systematic reviews are of uncertain or poor quality There are no universally accepted standards for developing systematic reviews leading to variability in how conflicts of interest and biases are handled how evidence is appraised and the overall scientific rigor of the process In Finding What Works in Health Care the Institute of Medicine IOM recommends 21 standards for developing high quality systematic reviews of comparative effectiveness research The standards address the entire systematic review process from the initial steps of formulating the topic and building the review team to producing a detailed final report that synthesizes what the evidence shows and where knowledge gaps remain Finding What Works in Health Care also proposes a framework for improving the quality of the science underpinning systematic reviews This book will serve as a vital resource for both sponsors and producers of systematic reviews of comparative effectiveness research

International Child Law Trevor Buck, 2005 This book provides the reader with a sound understanding of the international law framework and issues relating to children and is a useful resource to advanced study and research
