Tolia-Kelly,Emma Waterton,Steve Watson,2016-07-01 Heritage and its economies are driven by affective politics and consolidated through emotions such as pride awe joy and pain In the humanities and social sciences there is a widespread acknowledgement of the limits not only of language and subjectivity but also of visuality and representation Social scientists particularly within cultural geography and cultural studies have recently attempted to define and understand that which is more than representational through the development of theories of affect assemblage post humanism and actor network theory to name a few While there have been some recent attempts to draw these lines of thinking more forcefully into the field of heritage studies this book focuses for the first time on relating heritage with the politics of affect The volume argues that our engagements with heritage are almost entirely figured through the politics of affective registers such as pain loss joy nostalgia pleasure belonging or anger It brings together a number of contributions that collectively and with critical acuity question how researchers working in the field of heritage might begin to discover and describe affective experiences especially those that are shaped and expressed in moments and spaces that can be at times intensely personal intimately shared and ultimately social It explores current theoretical advances that enable heritage to be affected released from conventional understandings of both heritage as objects and objects as representations by opening it up to a range of new meanings emergent and formed in moments of encounter Whilst representational understandings of heritage are by no means made redundant through this agenda they are destabilized and can thus be judged anew in light of these developments Each chapter offers a novel and provocative contribution provided by an interdisciplinary team of researchers who are thinking theoretically about affect through landscapes practices of commemoration visitor experience site interpretation and other heritage work Routledge Handbook of Political Corruption Paul M. Heywood, 2014-12-17

Since the early 1990s a series of major scandals in both the financial and most especially the political world has resulted in close attention being paid to the issue of corruption and its links to political legitimacy and stability. Indeed in many countries in both the developed as well as the developing world corruption seems to have become almost an obsession. Concern about corruption has become a powerful policy narrative, the explanation of last resort for a whole range of failures and disappointments in the fields of politics, economics and culture. In the more established democracies worries about corruption have become enmeshed in a wider debate about trust in the political class. Corruption remains as widespread today, possibly even more so as it was when concerted international attention started being devoted to the issue following the end of the Cold War. This Handbook provides a showcase of the most innovative and exciting research being conducted in Europe and North America in the field of political corruption as well as providing a new point of reference for all who are interested in the topic. The Handbook is structured around four core themes in the study of corruption in the contemporary world: understanding and defining the nature of corruption; identifying its causes; measuring its extent and analysing its consequences. Each of these themes is addressed from various perspectives in the first four sections of the Handbook, whilst the fifth section explores new directions that are emerging in corruption research. The contributors are experts in their field, working across a range of different social science perspectives. America Ascendant Stanley B. Greenberg, 2015-11-03

Renowned pollster who was key advisor to President Clinton, Stanley Greenberg reveals how America will be ascendant and how new Democratic presidents can lead a new era of bold reform. Museums and Migration Laurence Gourievdis, 2014-07-25

Recent decades have seen migration history and issues increasingly featured in museums. Museums and Migration explores the ways in which museum spaces, local, regional, national, have engaged with the history of migration, including internal migration, emigration and immigration. It presents the latest innovative research from academics and museum practitioners and offers a comparative perspective on a global scale, bringing to light geo and socio-political specificities. It includes an extensive range of international contributions from Europe, Asia, South America as well as settler societies such as Canada and Australia. Museums and Migration charts and enlarges the developing body of research which concentrates on the analysis of the representation of migration in relation to the changing character of museums within society, examining their civic role and their function as key public arenas within civil society. It also aims to inform debates focusing on the way museums interact with processes of political and societal changes and examining their agency and relationship to identity construction, community involvement, policy positions and discourses, but also ethics and moralities.

Katrina Andy Horowitz, 2020-07-07

Winner of the Bancroft Prize, Louisiana Endowment for the Humanities Book of the Year, A Publishers Weekly Book of the Year. The main thrust of Horowitz's account is to make us understand Katrina, the civic calamity, not the storm itself, as a consequence of decades of bad decisions by humans, not an unanticipated caprice of nature.

Nicholas Lemann New Yorker Hurricane Katrina made landfall in New Orleans on August 29 2005 but the decisions that caused the disaster can be traced back nearly a century After the city weathered a major hurricane in 1915 its Sewerage and Water Board believed that developers could safely build housing near the Mississippi on lowlands that relied on significant government subsidies to stay dry When the flawed levee system failed these were the neighborhoods that were devastated The flood line tells one important story about Katrina but it is not the only story that matters Andy Horowitz investigates the response to the flood when policymakers made it easier for white New Orleanians to return home than for African Americans He explores how the profits and liabilities created by Louisiana's oil industry have been distributed unevenly prompting dreams of abundance and a catastrophic land loss crisis that continues today Masterful Disasters have the power to reveal who we are what we value what we're willing and unwilling to protect New York Review of Books If you want to read only one book to better understand why people in positions of power in government and industry do so little to address climate change even with wildfires burning and ice caps melting and extinctions becoming a daily occurrence this is the one Los Angeles Review of Books Urban Subversion and the Creative City Oli Mould, 2015-03-27 Check out the author's video to find out more about the book <https://vimeo.com/124247409> This book provides a comprehensive critique of the current Creative City paradigm with a capital C and argues for a creative city with a small c via a theoretical exploration of urban subversion The book argues that the Creative City with a capital C is a systemic requirement of neoliberal capitalist urban development and part of the wider policy framework of creativity that includes the creative industries and the creative class and also has inequalities and injustices in built The book argues that the Creative City does stimulate creativity but through a reaction to it not as part of it Creative City policies speak of having mechanisms to stimulate individual collective or civic creativity yet through a theoretical exploration of urban subversion the book argues that to be truly creative is to be radically different from those creative practices that the Creative City caters for Moreover the book analyses the role that urban subversion and subcultures have in the contemporary city in challenging the dominant political economic hegemony of urban creativity Creative activities of people from cities all over the world are discussed and critically analysed to highlight how urban creativity has become co-opted for political and economic goals but through a radical reconceptualisation of what creativity is that includes urban subversion we can begin to realise a creative city with a small c ARCHDESIGN '19 / VI. INTERNATIONAL ARCHITECTURAL DESIGN CONFERENCE PROCEEDINGS Ortak Yayın (Mutual Publication), 2019-01-01 VI INTERNATIONAL ARCHITECTURAL DESIGN CONFERENCE 2019 Low-Cost Carriers in Emerging Countries John Bowen, 2019-02-14 Low Cost Airline Carriers in Emerging Countries traces the development of low cost carriers LCCs in Asia Latin America the Middle East and Africa examining airlines that have become significant players in their home markets but little known at a global scale The book maps the geography of the LCC phenomenon explaining the starkly varying success of budget airlines and assessing their current social economic and environmental impacts The book concludes with insights into the future potential of the LCC phenomenon along with its global ramifications Beginning with Southwest Airlines in the 1970s low cost carriers LCCs have democratized air travel around the world fostering huge increases in airline traffic and transforming the airline industry At the same time however the ascent of these budget airlines has exacerbated aviation related problems such as aircraft noise airport congestion greenhouse gas emissions and more LCCs have been extensively studied in the US and Europe but not in emerging regions of the globe Yet the impact of such airlines is greatest in low and middle income economies where only a small fraction of the population has ever flown and where competition from alternative modes road rail is weak

Incomplete Streets Stephen Zavestoski, Julian Agyeman, 2014-08-27 The Complete Streets concept and movement in urban planning and policy has been hailed by many as a revolution that aims to challenge the auto normative paradigm by reversing the broader effects of an urban form shaped by the logic of keeping automobiles moving By enabling safe access for all users Complete Streets promise to make cities more walkable and livable and at the same time more sustainable This book problematizes the Complete Streets concept by suggesting that streets should not be thought of as merely physical spaces but as symbolic and social spaces When important social and symbolic narratives are missing from the discourse and practice of Complete Streets what actually results are incomplete streets The volume questions whether the ways in which complete streets narratives policies plans and efforts are envisioned and implemented might be systematically reproducing many of the urban spatial and social inequalities and injustices that have characterized cities for the last century or more From critiques of a mobility bias rooted in the neoliberal foundations of the Complete Streets concept to concerns about resulting environmental gentrification the chapters in Incomplete Streets variously call for planning processes that give voice to the historically marginalized and more broadly that approach streets as dynamic fluid and public social places This interdisciplinary book is aimed at students researchers and professionals in the fields of urban geography environmental studies urban planning and policy transportation planning and urban sociology

Geographies of Developing Areas Glyn Williams, Paula Meth, Katie Willis, 2014-03-21 Geographies of Developing Areas is a thought provoking and accessible introductory text presenting a fresh view of the Global South that challenges students pre conceptions and promotes lively debate Rather than presenting the Global South as a set of problems from rapid urbanization to poverty this book focuses on the diversity of life in the South and looks at the role the South plays in shaping and responding to current global change The core contents of the book integrate traditional concerns of development geographers such as economic development and social inequality with aspects of the global South that are usually given less attention such as cultural identity and political conflict This edition has been fully updated to reflect recent changes in the field and highlight issues of security risk and violence environmental sustainability and climate change and the impact of ICT on patterns of North South and South South exchange It also challenges students to think about how space is important in both the directions and the outcomes of change in the Global South emphasizing the inherently spatial nature of political economic and socio cultural processes Students are introduced to the Global South via contemporary debates in development and current research in cultural economic and political geographies of developing areas The textbook consider how images of the so called Third World are powerful but problematic It explores the economic political and cultural processes shaping the South at the global scale and the impact that these have on people s lives and identities Finally the text considers the possibilities and limitations of different development strategies The main arguments of the book are richly illustrated through case study material drawn from across the Global South as well as full colour figures and photos Students are supported throughout with clear examples explanations of key terms ideas and debates and introductions to the wider literature and relevant websites in the field The pedagogical features of the book have been further developed through discussion questions and activities that provide focused tasks for students research including investigation based around the book s case studies and in depth exploration of debates and concepts it introduces Closing Sysco Lachlan MacKinnon, 2020-02-27 Closing Sysco presents a history of deindustrialization and working class resistance in the Cape Breton steel industry between 1945 and 2001 The Sydney Steel Works is at the heart of this story having existed in tandem with Cape Breton's larger coal operations since the early twentieth century The book explores the multifaceted nature of deindustrialization the internal politics of the steelworkers union the successful efforts to nationalize the mill in 1967 the years in transition under public ownership and the confrontations over health safety and environmental degradation in the 1990s and 2000s Closing Sysco moves beyond the moment of closure to trace the cultural historical and political ramifications of deindustrialization that continue to play out in post industrial Cape Breton Island A significant intervention into the international literature on deindustrialization this study pushes scholarship beyond the bounds of political economy and cultural change to begin tackling issues of bodily health environment and historical memory in post industrial places The experiences of the men and women who were displaced by the decline and closure of Sydney Steel are central to this book Featuring interviews with former steelworkers office employees managers politicians and community activists these one on one conversations reveal both the human cost of industrial closure and the lingering after effects of deindustrialization

Cities, State and Globalisation Tassilo Herrschel, 2014-01-03 This book investigates the ways in which city regions view themselves as single entities how they are governed what is meant by governance why the question of city regional governance matters and the extent to which the balance between internal and external factors is important for finding governance solutions Examples from North America and Europe are compared and contrasted to gain a better understanding of what matters on the ground to people and policy makers when seeking answers to the challenges of a globalised rapidly changing world In order to analyse the conditions involved in making local decisions the author looks at the impact of established policy making practices socio economic patterns among the population existing views of the local and the regional and their respective roles among the electorate and policy makers and the scope for building city regional governance under given statutory and fiscal provisions The complex interaction of these factors is shown to produce place specific forms and modi operandi for governing city regions as local regional constructs This book will be of interest to urban and regional policy makers and scholars working in the fields of economic geography and political geography

The Coming of Neo-Feudalism Joel Kotkin, 2023-01-10 Following a remarkable epoch of greater dispersion of wealth and opportunity we are inexorably returning towards a more feudal era marked by greater concentration of wealth and property reduced upward mobility demographic stagnation and increased dogmatism If the last seventy years saw a massive expansion of the middle class not only in America but in much of the developed world today that class is declining and a new more hierarchical society is emerging The new class structure resembles that of Medieval times At the apex of the new order are two classes a reborn clerical elite the clerisy which dominates the upper part of the professional ranks universities media and culture and a new aristocracy led by tech oligarchs with unprecedented wealth and growing control of information These two classes correspond to the old French First and Second Estates Below these two classes lies what was once called the Third Estate This includes the yeomanry which is made up largely of small businesspeople minor property owners skilled workers and private sector oriented professionals Ascendant for much of modern history this class is in decline while those below them the new Serfs grow in numbers a vast expanding property less population The trends are mounting but we can still reverse them if people understand what is actually occurring and have the capability to oppose them
