Passage A: A Disappointing Return!

I had been imagining this return trip down the narrow track to Soche Hill for many years. Some trips mean so much to us that we rehearse them obsessively in our head, in delicious anticipation. It was a homecoming more important to me than going back to Medford where I had grown up.

Instead of driving straight to the school I stopped at the nearby town of Limbe, which began abruptly, the edge of the town slummy, with the outdoor businesses – bicycle menders, car repairers, coffin-makers; the rest of it chaotic, litter and mobs, small businesses and bars and dubious-looking clinics. The town was much fuller – larger and meaner-looking. In a fine, chilly and drifting mist, I drove out of Limbe by a familiar route; uphill through a forest that had once been much larger, past a village that had once been much smaller, on a paved road that had once been just a muddy track. My hopes were raised by this narrow but good back road that ascended to the lower slopes of Soche Hill, for I assumed that this improved road indicated that the school too had been improved.

But I was wrong. The school was almost unrecognisable. What had been a set of school buildings in a large grove of trees was a semi-derelect compound of battered buildings in a muddy, open field. The trees had been cut down, the grass was chest high. At first glance the place was so poorly maintained as to seem abandoned: broken windows, doors ajar, mildewed walls, gashes in the roofs, and just a few people standing around, empty-handed, doing nothing but gaping at me.

I walked to the house I had once lived in. The now-battered building had once lain behind hedges and blossoming shrubs, but the shrubbery was gone, replaced by a small scrappy garden of withered maize. Tall elephant grass had almost overwhelmed the garden and now pressed against the house. The building was scorched and patched. Firewood had been thrown in a higgledy-piggledy stack outside the kitchen.

More rain-stained mildewed walls and sagging roofs, more broken windows and cracked verandas up the road, at the other teachers' houses. The drizzle was coming down hard now, but the rain and the mud and the dripping trees and the green slime on the brick walls were appropriate to the melancholy I felt.

I met two teachers standing in the wet road, chatting together. They introduced themselves as Anne Holt and Jackson Yekha – new teachers here.

'Ever heard of the Roseveares?' I asked. 'They actually started the school. They lived over there.'

We have the means to build an equitable world without hunger fuelled by clean energy. Instead we have a politics driven by scarcity, lives defined by unaffordability and public institutions that no longer deliver on big ideas. It's time for change. Bestselling authors Ezra Klein and Derek Thompson have spent decades analysing the political, economic and cultural forces that have led us here. In this, once in a generation intervention, they unpick the barriers to progress and show how we can and must shift the political agenda to one that not only protects and preserves but also builds. From healthcare to housing, infrastructure to innovation, they lay out a path to a future defined not by fear but by abundance.

Learning to Teach in the Secondary School Susan Capel, Marilyn Leask, Sarah Younie, 2016-03-17. Learning to teach involves hard work and careful preparation. To become an effective teacher requires pedagogical and subject knowledge, an understanding of your pupils and how they learn, and the confidence to respond to dynamic classroom situations. Learning to Teach in the Secondary School is the market leading text for all undergraduate, postgraduate and school based routes to qualified teacher status. It offers an in depth and practical introduction to the knowledge, skills and understanding needed to become a confident and effective teacher. With a focus on evidence based practice, the book includes a wealth of examples to demonstrate how to successfully apply theory to practice and how to critically analyse your practice to maximise pupil learning. This 7th edition is fully updated in light of the latest initiatives, evidence and research in the field, offering comprehensive coverage, unit by unit, of the key concepts and skills addressed on initial teacher education courses in preparation for work in schools. The wide range of pedagogical features support both university based work, including that up to Masters Level, and school based initial teacher education, and are designed to help you develop those qualities that lead to good practice and a successful future in education. Written by expert practitioners, thirty six essential units include: adopting a positive approach to managing behaviour to support learning; ways pupils learn; planning lessons; units of work and schemes of work; motivating pupils; assessment; inclusion and special educational needs; using ICT and digital technologies; pupil grouping; progression and differentiation; managing time; workload and stress; getting your first teaching post. Learning to Teach in the Secondary School provides practical help and guidance for many of the situations and potential challenges you are faced with in school. Supported by the Learning to Teach Subjects in the Secondary School Series, it is an essential purchase for every aspiring secondary school teacher.

Information and Communications for Development 2018 World Bank, 2018-11-08. The Information and Communications for Development series looks in depth at how information and communications technologies are affecting economic growth in developing countries. This new report, the fourth in the series, examines the topic of data driven development or how better information makes for better policies. The objective is to assist developing country firms and governments in unlocking the value of the data they hold for better service delivery and decision making, and to empower individuals to take more control of their personal data. We are undoubtedly experiencing a data revolution in which our ability to generate, process and utilize information has been magnified many times over by the machines that we increasingly rely upon This report is about how the data revolution is changing the behavior of governments individuals and firms and how these changes affect the nature of development economic social and cultural How can governments extract value from data to improve service delivery in the same way that private companies have learned to do for profit Is it feasible for individuals to take ownership of their own data and to use it to improve their livelihoods and quality of life Can developing country firms compete with the internet majors on their own turf and be even more innovative in their use of data to serve local customers better Though the report is aimed primarily at government policy makers it also has great relevance for individuals concerned about how their personal data is used and how the data revolution might affect their future job prospects For private sector firms particularly those in developing countries the report suggests how they might expand their markets and improve their competitive edge For development professionals the report provides guidance on how they might use data more creatively to tackle long standing global challenges such as eliminating extreme poverty promoting shared prosperity or mitigating the effects of climate change The report s chapters explore different themes associated with the supply of data the technology underlying it and the demand for it An overview chapter focuses on government use of data and presentation of definitions Part I of the report then looks at the supply side of the data sector with chapters on data connectivity and capacity where data comes from how it is stored and where it goes and data technology specifically big data analytics and artificial intelligence and how this is contributing to development Part II looks at the sector s demand side with a chapter on people s use of data and another that examines how firms use digital platforms in the data economy and how that contributes to competitiveness Part III brings together the policy implications for developing country stakeholders with a chapter considering government policies for data including data protection and privacy A closing Data Notes appendix looks at statistical indicators associated with the use of data and presents the 2018 update of the Digital Adoption Index DAI a composite indicator introduced in the 2016 World Development Report Digital Dividends

Fighting the Great War at Sea Norman Friedman, 2014-10-22 The overriding image of the First World War is the bloody stalemate of the Western Front but although much of the action did occur on land the overall shape of the war _ even the inevitability of British participation _ arose out of its maritime character It was essentially a struggle about access to worldwide resources most clearly seen in the desperate German attempts to deal with the American industrial threat which ultimately levered the United States into the war and thus a consequence of British sea control

This radical new book concentrates on the way in which each side tried to use or deny the sea to the other and in so doing it describes rapid wartime changes not only in ship and weapon technology but also in the way naval warfare was envisaged and fought Combat produced many surprises some like the impact of the mine and torpedo are familiar but this book also brings to light many previously unexplored subjects like creative new tactical practices and improved command and control
The contrast between expectation and reality had enormous consequences not only for the course of the war but also for the way navies developed afterwards This book melds strategic technical and tactical aspects to reveal the First World War from a fresh perspective but also demonstrates how its perceived lessons dominated the way navies prepared for the Second

Communication, Entertainment, and Messages of Social Justice Richard West, Christina S. Beck, 2025-04-29 This edited collection explores the contemporary interplay among three pivotal areas found in cultures around the world communication entertainment and messages of social justice Each chapter centralizes communication as instrumental in creating mediated messages pertaining to social justice usually resulting in a more educated audience Using an accessible writing style the contributors investigate both classic and contemporary social media television film stage radio and podcast productions by employing both qualitative and quantitative methods Furthermore through case studies on topics including transphobia indigenous comedy and drag performance this book assesses key issues and themes portrayed in contemporary entertainment education It provides a foundational framework for analysis by utilizing a broad range of theoretical models to explore representations of race class gender advocacy and pedagogy among others as well as their communication implications This book will be of interest to scholars and students in the fields of Communication Studies Popular Culture Studies Media Studies Theatre Studies Social Justice Studies Sociology and Psychology

The Delusions of Crowds William L Bernstein, 2021-05-06 Inspired by Charles Mackay's 19th century classic Memoirs of Extraordinary Popular Delusions and the Madness of Crowds William Bernstein engages with mass delusion with the same curiosity and passion but armed with the latest scientific research that explains the biological evolutionary and psychosocial roots of human irrationality Bernstein tells the stories of dramatic religious and financial mania in western society over the last 500 years from the Anabaptist Madness that afflicted the Low Countries in the 1530s to the dangerous end times beliefs that animate ISIS and pervade today's polarised nations and from the South Sea Bubble to the Enron scandal and dot com bubbles of recent years Through Bernstein's supple prose the participants are as colourful as their motivation invariably the desire to improve one's well being in this life or the next As revealing about human nature as they are historically significant Bernstein's chronicles reveal the huge cost and alarming implications of mass mania as he observes that if we can absorb the history and biology of mass delusion we can recognise it more readily in our own time and avoid its frequently dire impact
