¿Climbing the Ladder falling off it? Gonzalo Schwarz, Caspian Rehbinder, Erik Liss, Martin Ågerup, Carl Heiberg, Radovan Đurana, Syed Kamall, Lithuanian Free Market Institute (LFMI), 2021-12-03 All around the world the most critical public policy conversations revolve around the fields of social mobility and inequality. Despite widespread interest, there are many issues and questions that are either misunderstood or under-researched when it comes to these fields. And in addition, for those seeking to make it easier to climb the income ladder, the terms inequality, poverty, and mobility continue to be used interchangeably, further complicating many of our policy discussions as these issues have different definitions and implications. This book centers around the most vital of these topics: social mobility and the concern that there is still no consensus on the main barriers to social mobility. Conducting a broader analysis of the relationship between structural factors and social mobility can offer important clues to understanding why even some developed countries are struggling to increase upward economic mobility.
