The Radical Fifties

Sophie Scott-Brown,2025-06-12 The 1950s are usually portrayed as conservative conformist and apathetic but was there more to this much maligned decade than that In Britain the convergence of conflicting political moments the Cold War the Bomb the rise of America the decline of the empire welfare and affluence compelled a rapid rethinking of what it meant to be political along with a series of experiments in democracy and democracy education The Radical Fifties examines the distinctive activist politics emerging from this by focusing on the entwined histories of its main protagonists the Freedom Press anarchists the New Left Club socialists and the Direct Action Committee pacifists Instead of gaining or influencing power in a traditional sense these groups wanted to dispense with it all together and transform democracy into a whole way of life a quality of interaction between people While this upturned conventional political thinking it also posed a dilemma conceding the practice of democracy also meant conceding the ability to determine its ends and direct its activities In contrast to the assertive radicalism of the sixties this appeared dismally unambitious yet it confronted more directly and seriously the defining questions of the times could democratic means produce democratic ends If not was it still democracy

Anthropological Perspective Susan Bayly, 2024-05-03 Contemporary Asian societies bear the imprint of the experience and afterlives of colonialism revolutionary socialism and religious and secular nationalism in dramatically contrasting ways Asian Lives in Anthropological Perspective draws together essays that demonstrate the role of these far reaching transformations in the shaping of two Asian settings in particular India and Vietnam It traces historical and contemporary realities through a variety of compelling topics including the lived experience of India's caste system and the ethical challenges faced by Vietnamese working women The Genocide Continues Karen Stote, 2025-10-28T00:00:00Z Indigenous Peoples in Canada have experienced coerced sterilization under eugenics legislation since the 1930s and the violence has never stopped even though eugenics fell into disrepute In The Genocide Continues Karen Stote traces the historical political economic and policy context informing the coerced sterilization of Indigenous women from 1970 onward She shows how a powerful idea paved the way for the expanded violations of Indigenous People's bodies and futures That idea was population control a concern with who occupied land and how resources were distributed and it was a central thread guiding public health interventions from eugenics to family planning The Genocide Continues offers new insights to show how federal provincial and corporate activities intersected to criminalize and regulate Indigenous reproduction Saskatchewan which first established family planning policies in the 1970s and is now the province with the highest number of Indigenous women coming forward with experiences of coerced sterilization is Stote's case study to demonstrate why family planning activities consistently targeted Indigenous women Stote weaves compelling archival evidence with principled storytelling to connect violence against Indigenous bodies to violence against Indigenous lands Unless and until colonialism extractivism and dispossession are addressed a genocide against Indigenous peoples will continue Texts, Tasks, and Talk Brad Cawn, 2015-10-22 Align teaching with next generation standards To fully address the Common Core State Standards educators must pair standards aligned instructional goals with high quality texts or content The author underscores the crucial role of selecting preparing and incorporating texts in curriculum design and the importance of close reading rigorous task construction purposeful classroom discussion and focused collaboration in literacy instruction The Principle of Sustainability Klaus Bosselmann, 2016-12-08 This book investigates how sustainability informs key principles and concepts of domestic and international law It calls for the recognition of ecological sustainability as a fundamental principle to guide the entire legal system rather than just environmental legislation To this end the book makes a contribution to global environmental constitutionalism a rapidly growing area within comparative and international environmental law and constitutional law This 2nd edition has been fully revised and updated to take account of recent developments and new case law The book will be a valuable resource for students researchers and policy makers working in the areas of environmental law and governance Turning the Page on Complex Texts Diane Lapp, Barbara Moss, 2016-04-28 Ensure all learners become successful close readers In this powerful resource the authors examine what features make a text complex Learn how to select appropriate complex texts and design instruction to meet the needs of every student Explore grade specific classroom scenarios that illustrate how to scaffold lessons to foster close reading and deepen comprehension at all stages of K 12 education Benefits Gain practical teaching strategies for creating close reading lessons Consider grade level specific instructional scenarios that illustrate how to support students reading comprehension as they learn to read closely Learn how to evaluate a text's complexity and how to ask text dependent questions that can help students engage with a text Study evidence for why continuous close assessment of student performance is vital for making sure all students learn to closely read complex texts Discover potential contingency scaffolds for the classroom and how to use them to promote student success in closely reading a text Contents Introduction Part I Background and Planning Information 1 Understanding Close Reading 2 Identifying Text Complexity 3 Making Decisions That Support Close Reading Instruction 4 Assessing During Close Reading Part II Instructional Scenarios 5 Understanding What the Text Says Through Differentiated Scaffolds 6 Understanding How the Text Works Through Differentiated Scaffolds 7 Understanding What the Text Means Through Differentiated Scaffolds 8 Supporting Knowledge Demands with Differentiated Scaffolds Epilogue Appendix A References and Resources Teaching to Change the World Jeannie Oakes, Martin Lipton, Lauren Anderson, Jamy Stillman, 2018-01-29

Teaching to Change the World is an up to the moment engaging social justice oriented introduction to education and teaching and the challenges and opportunities they present Both foundational and practical the chapters are organized around conventional topics but in a way that consistently integrates a coherent story that explains why schools are as they are Taking the position that a hopeful democratic future depends on ensuring that all students learn the text pays particular attention to inequalities associated with race social class language gender and other social categories and explores teachers role in addressing them This thoroughly revised fifth edition remains a vital introduction to the profession for a new generation of teachers who seek to become purposeful knowledgeable practitioners in our ever changing educational landscape for those teachers who see the potential for education to change the world Features and Updates of the New Edition Fully updated Chapter 1 The U S Schooling Dilemma reflects our current state of education after the 2016 U S presidential election First person observations from teachers including first year teachers continue to offer vivid authentic pictures of what teaching to change the world means and involves Additional coverage of the ongoing effects of Common Core highlights the heated public discourse around teaching and teachers and charter schools Attention to diversity and inclusion is treated as integral to all chapters woven throughout rather than tacked on as separate units Digging Deeper resources on the new companion website include concrete resources that current and future teachers can use in their classrooms Tools for Critique provides instructors and students questions prompts and activities aimed at encouraging classroom discussion and particularly engaging those students least familiar with the central tenets of social justice education

Indigenous Sacred Natural Sites and Spiritual Governance John Studley, 2018-10-26 Since time immemorial indigenous people have engaged in legal relationships with other than human persons. These relationships are exemplified in enspirited sacred natural sites which are owned and governed by numina spirits that can potentially place legal demands on humankind in return for protection and blessing. Although conservationists recognise the biodiverse significance of most sacred natural sites, the role of spiritual agency by other than human persons is not well understood. Consequently, sacred natural sites typically lack legal status and IUCN designated protection. More recent ecocentric and posthuman worldviews and polycentric legal frameworks have allowed courts and legislatures to grant rights to nature and juristic personhood and standing to biophysical entities. This book examines the indigenous literature and recent legal cases as a pretext for granting juristic personhood to enspirited sacred natural sites. The author draws on two decades of his research among Tibetans in Kham southwest China to provide a detailed case study. It is argued that juristic personhood is contingent upon the presence and agency of a resident numina and that recognition should be given to their role in spiritual governance over their jurisdiction. The book concludes by recommending that advocacy organisations help indigenous people with test cases to secure standing for threatened sacred natural sites (SNS) and calls upon IUCN, UNESCO, MAB and WHS, ASEAN Heritage and EuroNatura to retrospectively re-designate their properties, reserves, parks and initiatives so that SNS and spiritual governance are fully recognised and embraced. It will be of great interest to advanced students and researchers in environmental law, nature conservation, religion and anthropology.
