Being There The Fieldwork Encounter And The Making Of Truth:

Being There John Borneman, Abdellah Hammoudi, 2009-02-04 In recent decades anthropologists have learned to think of themselves as prisoners of text In the new orthodoxy ethnography is best viewed as a certain kind of literary genre textual criticism provides a master theory for understanding all manner of social and cultural phenomena and young anthropologists show a reluctance to leave the comfort zone of the archive and the library where whatever else happens no unruly interlocutor is going to do something unseemly like answering back This brilliant and humane volume promises to put paid to all that Anthropology is the product of an encounter with the world we call fieldwork and fieldwork is an edgy business in which researchers necessarily put themselves at intellectual political and ethical risk This volume restores that edgy business to the heart of our concerns and reminds anthropologists that their distinctive way of engaging the world can be the source of real intellectual excitement and as worthy of sophisticated theoretical reflection as anything they do Jonathan Spencer University of Edinburgh

Home Johannes Lenhard, Farhan Samanani, 2020-05-19 How are notions of home made and negotiated by ethnographers And how does the researcher relate to forms of home encountered during fieldwork Rather than searching for an abstract philosophical understanding of home this collection asks how home gains its meaning and significance through ongoing efforts to create sustain or remake a sense of home The volume explores how researchers and informants alike are always involved in the process of making and unmaking home and challenges readers to reimagine ethnographic practice in terms of active morally complex process of home making Contributions reach across the globe and across social contexts and the book includes chapters on council housing and middle class apartment buildings homelessness and migration problems with accessing the field as well as limiting it physical as well as sentimental notions of home and objects as well as inter human social relations Home draws attention to processes of sociality that normally remain analytically invisible and contributes to a growing and rich field of study on the anthropology of home

Ethnographic Research in the Construction Industry Sarah Pink, Dylan Tutt, Andrew Dainty, 2013 The construction industry as a workplace is commonly seen as problematic for a number of reasons including its worrying health and safety record the instability of its workforce and the poorly regulated nature of the sector It is surprising therefore that the sector and its working practices remain so under theorised Now though there is a growing interest in and awareness of the utility of an ethnographic approach to the construction industry Ethnographic Research in the Construction Industry draws together in one volume a set of expert contributions which demonstrate how social science perspectives rooted in ethnographic research on construction sites and with construction workers themselves can generate fresh insights into the social cultural and material ways that the industry and conditions of work in it are experienced and played out. Each chapter develops discussion on the basis of an ethnographic case study to examine how theoretically informed ethnographic research can help us understand industry problems and can challenge common perceptions of the construction industry. This book will be of interest to students and scholars of anthropology sociology geography and organization studies as well as those from the built environment and related applied fields.

Anthropology Christoph Wulf, 2024-05-31 Originally published in German Christoph Wulf's Anthropology sets its sights on a topic as ambitious as its title suggests anthropology itself. Arguing for an interdisciplinary and intercultural approach to anthropology that incorporates science philosophy history and many other disciplines Wulf examines with breathtaking scope all the ways that anthropology has been understood and practiced around the globe and through the years. Seeking a central way to understand anthropology in the midst of many different approaches to the discipline Wulf concentrates on the human body. An emblem of society culture and time the body is also the result of many mimetic processes the active acquisition of cultural knowledge. By examining the role of the body in the performance of rituals gestures language and other forms of imagination he offers a bold new look at how culture is produced handed down and transformed. Drawing such examinations into a comprehensive and sophisticated assessment of the discipline as a whole Anthropology looks squarely at the mystery of humankind and the ways we have attempted to understand it.

Viral Frictions Elizabeth J. Pfeiffer, 2022-06-17 Viral Frictions takes the reader along a trail of intersecting narratives to uncover how and why it is that HIV related stigma persists in the age of treatment. Pfeiffer convincingly argues that stigma is a socially constructed process co produced at the nexus of local national and global relationships and storytelling about and practices associated with HIV. Rituals of Care Felicity Aulino, 2019-10-15 Aulino's work is a strong contribution to the study of aging in the field of medical anthropology specifically because of the focus on the embodied performativity of care evident in her research practice and analysis. Rituals of Care is an excellent book which offers a thoughtful approach to everyday care in Thailand. Anthropology Aging End of life issues are increasingly central to discussions within medical anthropology the anthropology of political action and the study of Buddhist philosophy and practice. Felicity Aulino's Rituals of Care speaks directly to these important anthropological and existential conversations Against the backdrop of global population aging and increased attention to care for the elderly both personal and professional Aulino challenges common presumptions about the universal nature of caring The way she examines particular sets of emotional and practical ways of being with people and their specific historical lineages allows Aulino to show an inseparable link between forms of social organization and forms of care Unlike most accounts of the quotidian concerns of providing care in a rapidly aging society Rituals of Care brings attention to corporeal processes Moving from vivid descriptions of the embodied routines at the heart of home caregiving to depictions of care practices in more general ways care for one's group care of the polity it develops the argument that religious social and political structures are embodied through habituated action in practices of providing for others Under the watchful treatment of Aulino care becomes a powerful foil for understanding recent political turmoil and structural change in Thailand proving embodied practice to be a vital vantage point for phenomenological and political analyses alike Rapport and the

Discursive Co-Construction of Social Relations in Fieldwork Encounters Zane Goebel, 2019-08-19 In accounts of ethnographic fieldwork and textbooks on ethnography we often find the notion of rapport used to describe social relationships in the field Frequently rapport between researcher and researched is invoked as a prerequisite to be achieved before fieldwork can start or used as evidence to judge the value and robustness of an ethnography With few exceptions and despite regular pleas to do so ethnographers continue to avoid presenting any discursive evidence of what rapport might look like from an interactional perspective In a sense the uncritical acceptance of rapport as a fieldwork goal and measure has helped hide the discursive work that goes on in the field In turn this has privileged ideas about identity as portable rather than portable and emergent and reports of social life as more important than how such reports emerge Written for all those who engage or plan to engage in ethnographic fieldwork this collection examines how social relationships dialogically emerge in fieldwork settings

Care and Agency Jeanine Anderson, Jessaca B. Leinaweaver, 2024-10-11 Andean communities occupy a special place in the history of anthropology having given shape to fundamental theories of kinship peasant economics Indigenous medical systems ritual life and others Yet children have been shortchanged in research and theory building Care and Agency based on detailed ethnographies of six towns in the province of Yauyos restores children to a central research position Contemporary children's studies emphasize children's agency and autonomy and these take surprising forms under the conditions of the rural Andes At the same time the book incorporates and extends current discussions of caregiving and its organization in human societies Children in the Andes are involved in the care of each other of adults of animals of the environment The activities sociality and subjective states of children of different ages genders and social strata are variable in ways that make it impossible to speak of a single Andean childhood The future they face is also uncertain as the Peruvian nation stumbles through cycles of incompetent government whose common thread is the neglect of small scale family farming and the welfare of rural populations This book is a fascinating look at Andean childhood for anyone interested in the lives of children

The Challenge of Epistemology Christina Toren, João de Pina-Cabral, 2011-10-01 Epistemology poses particular problems for anthropologists whose task it is to understand manifold ways of being human Through their work anthropologists often encounter people whose ideas concerning the nature and foundations of knowledge are at odds with their own Going right to the heart of anthropological theory and method this volume discusses issues that have vexed practicing anthropologists for a long time The authors are by no means in agreement with one another as to where the answers might lie Some are primarily concerned with the clarity and theoretical utility of analytical categories across disciplines others are more inclined to push ethnographic analysis to its limits in an effort to demonstrate what kind of sense it can make All are aware of the much wanted differences that good ethnography can make in explaining the human sciences and philosophy The contributors show a continued commitment to ethnography as a profoundly radical intellectual endeavor that goes to the very roots of inquiry into what it is to be human and to anthropology as a comparative project that should be central to any attempt to understand who we are The Children in Child Health Julie Spray,2020-03-13 A journey into the lives of children coping in a world compromised by poverty and inequality The Children in Child Health challenges the invisibility of children s perspectives in health policy and argues that paying attention to what children do is critical for understanding the practical and policy implications of these experiences Global Handbook of Inequality Surinder S.
