Assessing English Language Learners in the Content Areas Florin Mihai, 2010-06-11 Assessing English Language Learners in the Content Areas A Research into Practice Guide for Educators seeks to provide guidance to classroom teachers staff developers and test item designers who want to improve ELL assessment outcomes particularly in the areas of math science and social studies The first two chapters of the book establish the background for the discussion of content area assessment for ELLs examining several important characteristics of this rapidly growing student population as well as critical legislation affecting ELLs and providing a description of various forms of assessment including how ELL assessment is different from the assessment of English proficient students Important assessment principles that educators should use in their evaluation of tests or other forms of measurement are provided Other chapters review ELL test accommodations nationwide because surprisingly most teachers do not know what they can and cannot allow and the research on the effectiveness of these types of accommodations The book analyzes the characteristics of alternative assessment it discusses three popular alternative assessment instruments performance assessment curriculum based measurement and portfolios and makes recommendations as to how to increase the validity reliability and practicality of alternative assessments The book proposes fundamental assessment practices to help content area teachers in their evaluation of their ELL progress

California in a Time of Excellence James Andrew LaSpina, 2009-02-26 Follows California s efforts at reforming the public school system from 1983 to the present Policy, Professionalization, Privatization, and Performance Assessment Theresa J.

Gurl, Limarys Caraballo, Leslee Grey, John H. Gunn, David Gerwin, Héfer Bembenutty, 2016-02-19 This volume reviews the background of mandated teacher performance assessment with an emphasis on policy privatization and professionalization The authors discuss the potential impact of mandated teacher performance assessments on teacher education in the content areas of mathematics English and social studies The perspectives and empirical research examined in this conceptual analysis illustrate the various ways in which the Stanford Center for Assessment Learning and Equity SCALE Teacher Performance Assessment edTPA promises to restructure teacher education in the United States The authors consider both the affordances and the constraints that teacher performance assessments offer for teacher preparation programs and conclude by discussing the implications of the intersections among policy privatization professionalization and performance assessments of teachers as well as the relationship between performance assessments and teacher education The impact of the edTPA on the development of signature pedagogies in teacher education is also discussed The TurnAround ToolKit

Lynn Winters, Joan Herman, 2011 Lynn Winters s and Joan Herman s The Turnaround Toolkit is written for school leaders who are focused on transforming instruction and who may be working under significant time constraints to reverse declining student achievement or public perceptions of school failure Based on the evidence that simply implementing continuous improvement is not enough to close the achievement gap The Turnaround Toolkit provides a nine step formative evaluation program designed to achieve an immediate and consistent focus on improving instruction in order to bolster student achievement In a straightforward and accessible fashion Herman and Winters explain three overarching Turnaround Tasks that frame these steps and the necessary and sometimes drastic actions that must be taken by school leaders as they use data to strategically choose implement monitor and revise school interventions A dedicated online toolkit offers numerous worksheets and templates that support each stage of the process and help school leaders scaffold the work of educators to put an aggressive turnaround plan into action while a leadership guide at the end of the book provides guidance to turnaround teams and facilitators

Defining Student Success Lisa M. Nunn, 2014-04-15 The key to success our culture tells us is a combination of talent and hard work Why then do high schools that supposedly subscribe to this view send students to college at such dramatically different rates Why do students from one school succeed while students from another struggle To the usual answer an imbalance in resources this book adds a far more subtle and complicated explanation Defining Student Success shows how different schools foster dissimilar and sometimes conflicting ideas about what it takes to succeed ideas that do more to preserve the status quo than to promote upward mobility Lisa Nunn's study of three public high schools reveals how students' beliefs about their own success are shaped by their particular school environment and reinforced by curriculum and teaching practices While American culture broadly defines success as a product of hard work or talent at school intelligence is the talent that matters most Nunn shows that each school refines and adapts this American cultural wisdom in its own distinct way reflecting the sensibilities and concerns of the people who inhabit each school While one school fosters the belief that effort is all it takes to succeed another fosters the belief that hard work will only get you so far because you have to be smart enough to master course concepts Ultimately Nunn argues that these school level adaptations of cultural ideas about success become invisible advantages and disadvantages for students college going futures Some schools' definitions of success match seamlessly with elite college admissions' definition of the ideal college applicant while others more closely align with the expectations of middle or low tier institutions of higher education With its insights into the transmission of ideas of success from society to school to student this provocative work should prompt a reevaluation of the culture of secondary education Only with a thorough understanding of this process will we ever find more consistent means of inculcating success by any measure

Reading Like a Historian Avishag Reisman, 2011 Enthusiasm about the instructional potential of primary sources dates to the late 19th century and has been echoed recently in the work of literacy experts historians and educational psychologists Yet no extended intervention study has been undertaken to test the effectiveness of primary source instruction in real history classrooms This study with 236 eleventh grade students in five San Francisco high schools represented the first large scale extended curriculum intervention in disciplinary reading in an urban district The Reading Like a Historian RLH curriculum constituted a radical departure from traditional textbook driven instruction by using a new activity structure the Document Based Lesson in which students used background knowledge and disciplinary reading strategies to interrogate and then reconcile historical accounts from multiple texts A quasi experiment control design measured the effects of a six month intervention on four dimensions 1 students historical thinking 2 their ability to transfer historical thinking strategies to contemporary issues 3 their mastery of factual knowledge and 4 their growth in general reading comprehension MANCOVA analysis yielded significant main effects for the treatment condition on all four outcome measures Qualitative analyses of videotaped classroom lessons were conducted to determine the frequency and nature of whole class text based discussion Only nine whole class text based discussions were identified in over 100 videotaped classroom lessons despite the presence of instructional materials explicitly designed to support student discussion of debatable historical questions Analysis of teacher and student participation suggests a relationship between active teacher facilitation that reviews background knowledge and poses direct questions about texts and higher levels of student argumentation This dissertation is structured as three free standing papers each of which addresses one aspect of the larger study In the first paper I discuss the design of the quasi experimental study and report quantitative findings In the second paper I locate teacher facilitation of whole class historical discussion in the literature on classroom discourse and I propose a developmental framework for analyzing student historical argumentation in classroom discussion In the third and final paper I discuss the theoretical underpinnings of the intervention curriculum and offer two examples to illustrate the structure of the Document Based Lesson
