from government propaganda films like Red Nightmare in Time magazine to Adventures of Rocky and Bullwinkle. This work examines representations of anti communist sentiment in American popular culture from the early fifties through the mid sixties. The discussion covers television programs, films, novels, journalism, maps, memoirs and other works that presented anti communist ideology to millions of Americans and influenced their thinking about these controversial issues. It also points out the different strands of anti communist rhetoric such as liberal and countersubversive ones that dominated popular culture in different media and tells a much more complicated story about producers and consumers' ideas about communism through close study of the cultural artifacts of the Cold War.
