disorganized human being By his own admission he was incapable of doing anything other than wandering the countryside and writing verses Although Santoka married and had a son he devoted his life to poetry studying Zen drinking sake and wandering the length and breadth of the Japanese islands on foot as a mendicant monk The poet's life alternated between long periods of solitary retreat and restless travel influenced by his tragic childhood When not on the road he lived in simple grass huts supported by friends and family Santoka was a lively conversationalist who was often found so drunk he could only make it home with the help of a friendly neighbor or passerby But above all throughout his life he wrote constantly poetry and essays flowed from him effortlessly Santoka's eccentric style of haiku is highly regarded in Japan today for being truly modern and free from formal constraints His journals and essays are equally thought provoking the musings of an unkempt but supremely self conscious mind on everything from writing to cooking rice and his failure to live a more orderly life This translation and its introduction are by best selling author William Scott Wilson whose other works include The Book of Five Rings and The Lone Samurai Wilson provides sensitive renditions of the haiku illustrating Santoka's life as well as an extensive introduction to the influences on Santoka's work from contemporary haiku poets and his Buddhist teachers The Moon in the Pines, 2000 What Words of Paradise did for Sufism and The Perfection of Wisdom for Buddhism The Moon in the Pines does for Zen and the poetic form of haiku suffused with its spirit In a spare three lines and seventeen syllables the haiku stylized reflective elliptical often elegiac isolates a mood insight or aspect of nature subtly drawing the reader's own experience into complicity with the poet For four hundred years its focused clarity has reflected the Zen desire to greet each moment of life with a beginner's mind Here illustrated with the finest of Japanese paintings are haikus from classical masters including Soka Chiyo Ni Soseki and Basho alongside some modern day writers Clustered around the themes of Dawn Daylight Dusk and Moonlight their meanings are amplified in end notes and an introduction on Zen and haiku Jonathan Clements's expert new translations unlock a fresh spirituality that proffering an instant evocation invites a transcendent meditation The Moon in the Pines is a lavish jewel of a gift book Mouth agape At falling flowers A child is Buddha Kubutsu
