Teach Citizenship in the Secondary School Liam Gearon,2009-09-02 A comprehensive and illuminating resource on both citizenship and citizenship education David Hicks Times Educational Supplement What is the role of Citizenship How can it be taught effectively The fully updated second edition of Learning to Teach Citizenship in the Secondary School is an essential text for students training to teach Citizenship as a first or second subject as well as experienced teachers who have opted to take responsibility for this vital subject Written in a clear and practical way yet underpinned by a sound theoretical background it examines Citizenship as a wide ranging subject that can be taught in its own right or through other curriculum subjects and activities The new edition includes a range of brand new chapters covering key themes in Citizenship education including Historical origins and contemporary contexts Developing subject knowledge and skills of enquiry Effective lesson plans schemes of work and assessment Citizenship beyond the classroom community based work and learning outdoors Citizenship across the curriculum History English drama and media and R E Research in Citizenship With key objectives and tasks for each chapter this book will help the reader improve their understanding of Citizenship education and in turn help their pupils understand their roles as citizens in today s society Making Civics Count David E. Campbell,Meira

Levinson,Frederick M. Hess,2012-10-01 By nearly every measure Americans are less engaged in their communities and political activity than generations past So write the editors of this volume who survey the current practices and history of citizenship education in the United States They argue that the current period of creative destruction when schools are closing and opening in response to reform mandates is an ideal time to take an in depth look at how successful strategies and programs promote civic education and good citizenship Making Civics Count offers research based insights into what diverse students and teachers know and do as civic actors and proposes a blueprint for civic education for a new generation that is both practical and visionary

Civics for Secondary Schools ,2010 Indispensable Civic Education for Senior Secondary Schools & Colleges C.E. Andy,2012 Civic Education and Competences for Engaging Citizens in Democracies Murray Print,Dirk Lange,2013-02-11 Civic Education and Competences for Engaging Citizens in Democracies Murray Print University of Sydney and Dirk Lange Leibniz University of Hannover What competences do young citizens need to be considered as active and engaged in the context of a modern Europe In 2011 an invited research symposium of leading civic and political educators social scientists and educational administrators from Europe met in Hannover Germany to consider this key concern facing Europe today In examining the above question the symposium addressed two significant issues 1 Identify key competencies required for active citizenship of young people in Europe of the future 2 Translate those competencies to school based activities in the form of curricular and pedagogical strategies The group addressed these questions through discussion in the symposium and through previously prepared papers Subsequently the group participated in a modified Delphi Technique to identify the key competences and the final competences are presented in this book The chapters of this book represent the contribution of the participants before during and after the symposium with opportunities for review and reflection Murray Print and Dirk Lange are professors from the University of Sydney and Leibniz University of Hannover respectively and are national leaders in civics and citizenship education in their respective countries They have brought together a group of leading European civic and citizenship educators from different academic fields to explore the key issue and to identify the competences for young people to become active and engaged European citizens

Civic Education Richard G. Niemi,Jane Junn,2005-05-11 Sound democratic decisions rely on a citizenry with at least a partial mastery of the rules and workings of democratic government American high schools where students learn the basics of citizenship thus ought to play a critical role in the success of democracy Yet studies examining the impact of high school government and civics courses on political knowledge over the past quarter century have generally shown that these courses have little or no effect In this important book Richard G Niemi and Jane Junn take a fresh look at what America s high school seniors know about government and politics and how they learn it The authors argue convincingly that secondary school civics courses do indeed enhance students civic knowledge This book is based on the most extensive assessment to date of civic knowledge among American youth the 1988 National Assessment of Education Progress NAEP Civics Assessment The authors develop and test a theoretical model to explain the cognitive process by which students learn about politics and they conclude by suggesting specific changes in the style and emphasis of civics teaching The Future of Civic Education Elizabeth Yeager Washington, Keith C. Barton, 2024-10-01 Speaking to the need to move beyond traditional formulations this textbook presents radical visions for transforming civic education in the United States Drawing on the experience of educators and scholars including those rooted in feminist queer abolitionist global and race conscious perspectives this work offers new practical ideas for civic education reform Responding to recent political crises many scholars educators and public commentators have called for a rebirth of civic education but these all are grounded in the premise that the goal of civic education should be to teach students about the U S Constitutional system and how to operate within it This book argues that the U S governmental system including the Constitution is infused with racist and anti democratic premises and procedures It asks How can we seek a new path one that is more democratic more equitable and more humane A diverse range of leading civic educators who are willing not just to push the boundaries of civic education but to operate outside its assumptions altogether explore what future possibilities for civic education might look like and how these innovative ideas could be implemented in the classroom Combining theory with practice The Future of Civic Education will be important reading for those studying or researching in social studies methods social studies issues citizenship and civic education It will also be beneficial to social studies teachers at elementary and secondary levels as well as policymakers and non governmental organizations NGOs Civic Education for Junior Secondary Schools Dayo Olaganju, Garba Sa'ad, Regina O. Arisi, Johncliff Nwadike, 2009 JSS Civic Education Ibiyemi Oyeneye, Michael Onyenwenu, Robert Akaniro, 2014-03-07 Civic Education for Junior Secondary Schools is an exceptional course in Civic Education for Junior Secondary School Students The course has been written in full compliance with the Basic Education curriculum provided by the Nigerian Educational Research and Development Council and should fully equip the students for the Junior Secondary School Examination Every book in the course has been written in simple language to make it easy for the JS Students to understand Each topic in every book has been fully developed with examples the students can easily grasp and identify with Very clear apt pictures have also been used to illustrate the lessons in the books The authors are highly experienced teachers and WAEC NECO examiners who have also authored several highly successful Secondary School textbooks Civic Education in the Elementary Grades Dana Mitra, Stephanie C. Serriere, 2015 As former elementary school teachers the authors focus on what is possible in schools rather than a romantic vision of what schools could be Based on a 5 year study of an elementary school this book shows how civic engagement can be purposive and critical a way to encourage young people to examine their environment to notice and question injustices and to take action to make a difference in their communities and school Focusing on the intersection of student voice and critical inquiry the book describes how to embed civic engagement into curriculum school decision making processes and whole school activities Chapters provide an overview of what research has demonstrated about civic engagement at the classroom school and community levels including detailed descriptions of activities and lessons for practice Classroom teachers school principals community members and teacher educators can use this resource to foster a deeper richer understanding of what is entailed in civic life Book Features A vivid portrait of a typical public school that wants to do more than teach to the test An examination of the conditions that enable young people to participate in democratic practices including identifying and questioning injustices Concrete examples of student voice and critical inquiry in classroom contexts Practices and activities that encourage children to get along with others exchange perspectives and work across differences Offers a suggestive range of evidence that high quality civic engagement initiatives can enhance students academic social and emotional engagement It reveals the nitty gritty of how experienced teachers can enable children who are immersed in meaningful civic work also to engage more deeply with mathematical problem solving peer collaboration literacy and social studies learning and development of empathy and mutual trust From the Foreword by Meira Levinson Mitra and Serriere show us not only that elementary aged children are capable of civic engagement but how such engagement can be nurtured in the classroom Children can be active civic participants this book demonstrates both the power of this idea and how we might accomplish this essential task Beth C Rubin Rutgers University

Civic Education in the Twenty-first Century Michael T. Rogers, Donald M. Gooch, 2015 With Civic Education in the Twenty First Century we call for the United States to make these practices less isolated and more common throughout the country The volume is broken into three major sections First there are four chapters exploring the history and philosophical debates about civic education particularly with respect to its role in America s educational institutions Then the second section provides seven groundbreaking inquiries into how politicians and political institutions can promote civic education and engagement through their routine operations As some examples this section explores how politicians through campaigns and judiciaries through community programs enhance civic knowledge and encourage civic engagement This section also explores how new technologies like the Internet and social media are increasingly used by government institutions and other entities to encourage a more politically informed and engaged citizenry

Learning the Ways of Democracy ,2012-05-01

Schools, Curriculum and Civic Education for Building Democratic Citizens Murray Print, Dirk Lange, 2012 How can schools and the school curriculum contribute to building democratic citizens This is a major question posed by governments educational systems schools teachers and researchers around the world One important way is to identify the competences needed for preparing democratic citizens and incorporate these within both the formal and informal school curriculum Another question must then be posed what competences do young citizens need to be considered as active and engaged in modern democracies In 2011 an invited research symposium of leading civic and political educators and social scientists from across Europe met in Hannover Germany to consider this key concern facing Europe today In examining the above questions the symposium addressed two significant issues 1 Identify key competencies required for active citizenship of young people in Europe of the future 2 Translate those competencies to school based activities in the form of curricular and pedagogical strategies The publication Civic Education and Competences for Engaging Citizens in Democracies addressed the first issue and this volume addresses the second issue Through discussion in the invited symposium previously prepared papers and participation in a modified Delphi Technique the participants have prepared chapters for this book The chapters of this book represent the contribution of the participants before during and after the symposium with opportunities for review and reflection about competences for democratic citizenship and the role of schools and the curriculum Murray Print and Dirk Lange are professors from the University of Sydney and Leibniz University of Hannover respectively and are national leaders in civics and citizenship education in their respective countries They have brought together a group of leading European civic and citizenship educators from different academic fields to explore the key issue and to identify the competences for young people to become active and engaged European citizens

Civics for Secondary Schools Nyambari Nyangwine,2014

Civic and Citizenship Education in Volatile Times Kerry J Kennedy,2019-04-23 The book highlights current issues influencing civic and citizenship education and their theoretical underpinnings It provides an overview of the key features influencing democratic deconsolidation suggests ways in which civic and citizenship education needs to be reframed in order to fit this new political environment and demonstrates how social media will play a significant role in any future for civic and citizenship education Currently democratic institutions are under attack democratic values are threatened and there is a wide scale retreat from the liberal consensus that has underpinned liberal democracies internationally These trends can be seen in events like Brexit the election of a right wing populist President of the United States and anti democratic governments in parts of Europe It is this change in the direction of political ideology that is currently deconsolidating democracy and thus challenging traditional approaches to civic and citizenship education What is urgently needed is an understanding of these current trends and their implications for thinking in new ways about civic and citizenship education in the 21st century
