Formula Method

To convert between different units, follow these steps:
1. Determine the desired dosage (D) given by the physician's order. For example, let's say the order is for "120 mg".

2. Identify the dosage of the medication available (H) in a specific unit. For example, if the medication is supplied as "100mg/5mL".

3. Determine the volume of the medication available (V) in the same unit as the dosage. For example, if the medication is supplied as "100mg/5mL".

4. Use the following formula to calculate the answer (A): A = (D * V) / H.

5. Substitute the values into the formula: A = (120 mg * 5 mL) / 100 mg.

6. Simplify the equation: A = 6 mL.

Therefore, the answer (A) is 6 mL, which corresponds to the desired dosage of 120 mg based on the available medication concentration.
