Wolcott, Nathan Brown, William Goldner, Zia Haq, Season Hoard, Johnathan Holladay, Kristin C. Lewis, 2022-11-08 Law Between Buildings Nestor Davidson, Nisha Mistry, 2016-10-14 The rich field of urban law has thus far lacked a holistic and concerted scholarly focus on comparative and global perspectives This work offers new inroads into the global and comparative streams within urban law by presenting emerging frameworks and approaches to topics ranging from urban housing and land use to legal informality and consumer financial protection The volume brings together a group of international urban legal scholars to highlight emergent global interdisciplinary perspectives within the field of urban law particularly as they have import for comparative legal analysis The book presents a timely addition to the literature given the urgent legal issues that continue to surface in an age of rapid urbanization and globalization Global Action on School Library Guidelines Barbara A. Schultz-Jones,Dianne Oberg,2015-06-16 This book celebrates the new IFLA School Library Guidelines and shows how the Guidelines can be used in improving school library services Each chapter describes innovative initiatives for developing implementing and promoting school library guidelines The book provides inspiration and guidance for the creation of national school library standards and for the development and use of standards and guidelines to change school library practice to define the teaching role of school librarians to guide the initial preparation of school librarians and to advocate for school library services Contributors to the book come from around the world Australia Canada Ethiopia France Malaysia Norway Poland Portugal Spain Sweden and the United States Their work illustrates the shared commitment of school librarians around the world to teaching and learning for all as envisioned in the IFLA UNESCO School Library Manifesto Kuleana and Commitment Kathleen L. Kawelu,2015-08-31 The sociopolitical climate of Hawai i has changed substantially in recent decades and archaeologists working to decipher the islands past are increasingly faced with a complexity of issues involving Kanaka Maoli Native Hawaiian concerns Among these are the push for sovereignty cultural perpetuation and revitalization legal challenges to Kanaka Maoli programs such as Hawaiian Home Lands and the Office of Hawaiian Affairs and compliance with the Native American Graves Protection and Repatriation Act NAGPRA In Kuleana and Commitment Kathleen L Kawelu examines the entangled interactions between Kanaka Maoli and archaeologists in Hawai i by conducting an ethnographic investigation of the discipline of archaeology itself She explores the development of Hawaiian archaeology discusses important cases of the recent past and focuses on the interpersonal relationships between these two key groups involved in heritage management in Hawai i By revealing and understanding the contemporary attitudes of Kanaka Maoli and archaeologists toward each other Kawelu suggests a change in trajectory toward a more collaborative approach in practicing Hawaiian archaeology Through interviews with individuals from both communities Kawelu taps into collective narratives that reveal two overarching themes The first narrative speaks about the continuation of Kanaka Maoli cultural practices and beliefs for example kuleana responsibility the second speaks about the kind of commitment to Hawaiian archaeology and Kanaka Maoli descendants that is desired from archaeologists Requests for respect communication and partnership are heard in the narratives These same qualities also serve as the foundation for community based archaeology which challenges the exclusive access of archaeologists to the past and places the discipline and its practitioners among a broader group of stakeholders particularly descendant communities Integrating Biological Control into Conservation Practice Roy van Driesche, Daniel Simberloff, Bernd Blossey, Charlotte Causton, Mark Hoddle, Christian O. Marks, Kevin M. Heinz, David L. Wagner, Keith D. Warner, 2016-05-17 Invasive species have a critical and growing effect upon natural areas They can modify degrade or destroy wildland ecosystem structure and function and reduce native biodiversity Landscape level solutions are needed to address these problems Conservation biologists seek to limit such damage and restore ecosystems using a variety of approaches One such approach is biological control the deliberate importation and establishment of specialized natural enemies which can address invasive species problems and which should be considered as a possible component of restoration Biological control can be an effective tool against many invasive insects and plants but it has rarely been successfully employed against other groups Safety is of paramount concern and requires that the natural enemies used be specialized and that targeted pests be drivers of ecological degradation While modern approaches allow species to be selected with a high level of security some risks do remain However as in all species introductions these should be viewed in the context of the risk of failing to reduce the impact of the invasive species This unique book identifies the balance among these factors to show how biological control can be integrated into ecosystem restoration as practiced by conservation biologists Jointly developed by conservation biologists and biological control scientists it contains chapters on matching tools to management goals tools in action measuring and evaluating ecological outcomes of biological control introductions managing conflict over biological control and includes case studies as well as an ethical framework for integrating biological control and conservation practice Integrating Biological Control into Conservation Practice is suitable for graduate courses in invasive species management and biological control as well as for research scientists in government and non profit conservation organizations Environmental Considerations Associated with Hydraulic Fracturing Operations James A.
