Career Development as a Partner in Nation Building Australia Wendy Patton,2019-07-15 Despite examples of vocational guidance practice being evident in Australia since the mid 1800s there remains a spasmodic and patchwork approach to practice across the country For decades it is a field which has been paradoxically boosted and challenged by changing economic and political agendas Repeated international national and State reviews emphasise the vital nature of a systemic national approach to career development however authors repeatedly lament the lack of a sustained focus on career activity as a major national priority There is no broad comprehensive historical reckoning of the history of career development theory and practice in Australia since this early period Career development theory and practice in Australia has been forged in partnership with developments in an international context In documenting the shared history with other countries the author significantly adds to the body of knowledge on career development as a field in Australia and internationally The book provides new understandings about the historical development of this field of knowledge and in particular the challenging and cyclical nature of its policy history

Issues in Career Development Donald Thompson, John Patrick, Grafton T. Eliason, 2005-11-01 This volume will examine the historical emergence of the concept of career including early ideas about the meaning and role of work and how it fits with life The concept of career development is of relatively recent origin It was not until the early 20th Century that serious attention was given to the role of work and career as it applied to the common man While the concept of vocation has historical roots that date back centuries vocation or calling was typically only applied to the professions of the clergy law and medicine These individuals had careers while the common man had a job Perhaps the most significant event that changed both the labor market and the associated socio cultural values about work was the 2nd World War The technological advances that were brought about by the war were profound in terms of changing the nature of work and the war brought about a significant change in the gender makeup of our labor force as millions of women entered the labor market to support the war effort The combined effects of technology a radical new value system and a burgeoning economy changed everything
